LIFE FOR SLAYER TRIO

New Councilmen To Serve City For $500 Less

Estimate City Treasurer Is Cut $3,500 Per Year By Passage Of Ordinance

THREE AFFIRMATIVE TWO AGAINST BILL

Treser Charges That Ordinance Was Introduced As Result Of Propaganda

Council met today in formal session at the city building and adopted ordinances introduced by Mayor William Gillespie which will result in a slashing of salaries of the incoming mayor, councilmen and treasurer. The ordinances will become effective within 10 days.

The present mayor and councilmen receive $3,600 and $3,000 respectively. The incoming mayor will be paid $3,000 and incoming councilmen, $2,500. The decrease in the compensation of the treasurer will amount to about $3,500 as he will be allowed only 2½ percent on taxes paid after a penalty has been incurred. He has received five percent.

Two Ordinances

The first measure called up was that which make a cut in the salary of the new mayor and incoming councilmen effective the first Monday in January, 1932. Councilman Reeves offered the motion to adopt the ordinance. Councilman Burns offered the second to the motion.

When the roll was called Treser and Genkinger voted negatively. Reeves, Burns and Mayor Gillespie voted favorably. The motion carried. When Treser cast his negative ballot, he said: "I'm going to vote 'No' because I do not believe it is enough of a cut."

The measure which made the decrease in the salary and compensation of the city treasurer effective the first Monday in January 1932 was passed unanimously.

Councilman Treser said he had read propaganda which recommended salaries be cut. That propaganda was followed by this ordinance. I notice too" said Treser, 'a suggestion that each councilman give $1,000 of his salary to help take care of the poor. Will someone now introduce a resolution for that? If so,

PA NEWC OBSERVES

One of the old timers who attended the picnic Wednesday at the park told Pa Newc this morning that there were some of the younger generation who were not as polite as they should have been out there. This aged lady, who is 85, and her sister, who is older, were sitting on a bench in the pavillion at the time of the exhibition of jig dancing, and some younger woman just walked all over their feet and clothes in an effort to see the performance, and when the elderly ladies asked her to refrain, she just gave them the ha! ha!

It was reported into Pa Newc this morning, that A. F. Cameron of the Harlansburg road has an average of more than 65 bushels of oats to the acre on a nine acre field. Now if anyone can beat that record, let us hear from them!

Sad news for the kiddies of this city. Only 27 more days remain until the opening of school.

Daily Weather Report

U. S. weather bureau statistics for the 24-hour period ending at nine o'clock this morning follow:

Maximum temperature, 79.
Minimum temperature, 58.
Precipitation .02 inches.
River stage 3 feet, falling.

Statistics for the same day a year ago, follow:

Maximum temperature, 88.
Minimum temperature, 40.
Precipitation .10.

Prominent California Oil Man Is Reported As Quite Ill At His Home

(International News Service)

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif., Aug. 14.—E. L. Doheny, prominent oil man, today was reported very ill at his home.

Although members of the household admitted Doheny has been "under the weather for some time," they denied that he suffered a paralytic stroke.

Prison Warden Given Warning At Philadelphia

Warden Herbert "Hard Boiled" Smith, Receives Threat Of Death

TWO CONVICTS ARE STABBING VICTIMS

Anonymous Threat Is Received In Letter—Tells Warden To Keep Out

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 14.—Warden Herbert "Hard Boiled" Smith of the Eastern Penitentiary faced a death threat today as a result of his handling of the feud between rival gangsters imprisoned in the institution. The threat came anonymously by mail as two convicts lay in the prison infirmary suffering from stab wounds received in a fray with members of an opposing gang.

"Keep out of this," the letter read, "or you'll get this."

"This" was a crude sketch of a large dagger dripping with blood.

Convicts Recovering

The letter had been postmarked at the central city office here indicating it had been mailed following news of the outbreak on Sunday.

Max "Chink" Rothman, a long-term prisoner, was stabbed five times, and Louis "Fats" Barish, a lifer, twice, during the fray. Six men including William "Blackie" Zupkosky, notorious Philadelphia gangster, Benjamin Murgie, Pittsburgh lifer, Harry Ratz, serving 10-20 years, Charles Flocco, 10-20, and Edward Comedico, alias Eddie Hays, 10-20, are alleged to have taken part in the stabbing. The men used crude knives made of metal and tire tape.

The prisoners stabbed are expected to recover.

Borough Faces Suit By State

ROAD CLOSED BY TOWNSHIP HEADS

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Aug. 14.—A suit on behalf of the State Department of Highways against Fallston Borough, Beaver County, to force borough officials to remove barricaded placed on a state highway at Fallston hill, was expected to be completed by the department of justice today. Secretary of highways Sam Lewis will sign the papers being drafted by the attorney-general's office as soon as they are ready, he said.

According to Lewis, the department of justice suggested the best method of settling the highway dispute was to bring the borough into court and decide whether the barricades must be removed at the order of the department.

The road was barricaded by borough officials as a means of forcing action in relocation of the highway, on which several accidents have occurred. Yesterday, the department of highways served notice on the borough that the barricades must be removed but information from Fallston was that the barricades still stood action was then decided upon.

Legislators In Texas Enact New Oil Regulation

Early And Considerable Curtailment In Texas Oil Fields To Follow

GOVERNOR SIGNS MEASURE THURSDAY

Bill Specifically Gives Governor Power To Use National Guards

(International News Service)

AUSTIN, Tex., Aug. 14—An early and considerable curtailment of oil production in Texas was practically assured today, following passage by the legislature of a conservation bill with "teeth" in it.

Passed as an emergency measure and immediately signed by the governor, the bill became effective yesterday.

Enactment of the measure, a compromise between the house and the Senate, is believed to have eliminated the possibility that Governor Ross Sterling would call out the militia, as he threatened to do, to enforce proration.

Governor Given Power

The bill specifically gives the chief executive authority to use the National Guard to enforce proration, but normal methods of enforcement it also approves are strong enough to make it effective without use of troops, legislators declared.

The measure was given an overwhelming vote, the house passing it 125 to 12 and the Senate 29 to 1.

Under terms of the bill, ten days notice must be given by the railroad commission before new proration orders can be issued. The state will, therefore, be without proration

Von Gronau Is At Greenland

IS BOUND FOR CHICAGO AIRPORT

(International News Service)

LONDON, Aug. 14.—Another hazardous flight across the Atlantic was recorded today when news reached this city of the arrival at Scoresby Sound, Greenland, of Captain Wolfgang Von Gronau, German aviator flying in a seaplane to Chicago.

According to a dispatch from Reykjavik, Iceland, which city Von Gronau left yesterday at 12:45 p. m., E. D. T., the plane arrived at the chilly port on the coast of Greenland at 5:59. p. m., E. D. T.

One of the most dangerous laps of the extreme northern route across the Atlantic now lies ahead of Von Gronau. He must fly across the inland glacier of Greenland where a forced landing would be perilous because the interior is uninhabited and virtually in accessible.

(Special To The News)

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., Aug. 14.—One of the most astonishing things I ever read was in the paper today, publishing facts and figures that there has been over $300,000,000 swindled by fake stocks, and mines, proposals of marriage and all sorts of schemes, just from mostly widows, alone here in Los Angeles.

Now there is no harder earned money in the world than earned by a wife, and then be simp enough to let some guy talk her out of it!

They say it's worse in Cal than anywhere. It's either the climate, or widows are dumber.

About the only way I see to lick these male sharpers is not to leave your wife anything. That will get even with those slickers.

Powers Will Ask Stock Seller's Return To City

James Ritchie, Indicted Here, Captured By Pittsburgh Officers

THREE COUNTS WAIT HIS APPEARANCE HERE

Alleged To Have Peddled Worthless Stock In Western Pennsylvania

Already indicated in Lawrence county on three separate charges of violating the state securities act, James Ritchie, secretary of the defunct Atlantic Drug and Chemical Company, who was arrested in Chicago by an Allegheny county detective, is sought here by District Attorney Powers in connection with local activities.

A yrocess for his return to this city was made out today and is expected to be forwarded to the county detective's office in Pittsburgh by Sheriff Johnston, according to Powers, who said the local office will endeavor to bring Ritchie here where he is already indicted.

Query Pittsburgh

The local county detective's office was in communication with the Allegheny county authorities this morning following the receipt of information her that Ritchie had been apprehended following a country-wide search since his indictment here and in Allegheny county.

The process will be served against Ritchie because local authorities fear that he may be released on bail in Pittsburgh. According to word received here today it is idicated that the prisoner will be in high bail, lessening his chances to leave the jail before the process from Lawrence county is served on him

Ritchie was never arrested by the local authorities, A. S. Geyer, another member of the securities firm which is alleged to have swindled many in this territory, was also indicted here and is out on bond.

The pair belonged to the company which is declared to have peddled worthless stock in all sections of Western Pennsylvania before it was exposed by Attorney Alex B. B. Lindsey, special investigator of the Pennsylvania state department of securities.

Coroner's Jury Urges Further Investigation

Testimony At Inquest In Death Of Tony Spagnola Indicates Something Wrong

HOUSE INSURED PAGLEY ASSERTS

State Fire Marshal Will Probe Possibilities Of Incendiarism

Coroner's jury sitting in the case of Tony Spagnola, Rochester, Pa., found burned to death Thursday morning in the property of Dominick Pagley, Highland Avenue Extension, following an explosion and resulting fire in the property, at an inquest held at Jos. S. Rice Company funeral home, recommended that the state fire marshal and district attorney make a thorough investigation in the case.

The verdict of the jury was in effect that Spagnola came to his death as a result of a shock sustained when burned as a result of the explosion and fire, that it was the belief of the members of the jury that the explosion and fire were of an incendiary origin and that it was the sense of opinion of the jurors that a thorough investigation should be made by the proper authorities.

Establish Identity

Testimony offered established the identity of the dead man, that apparently he knew no one here and that none of the persons concerned here knew him, that apparently the explosion and resulting fire was the result of an attempt at the destruction of the property by fire and that the dead man was caught in the building and lost his life as a result of the premature explosion of the inflammable materials used.

As the taking of testimony was concluded, Mrs. Spagnola, wife of the dead man, who had borne up with great bravery during the time that she was being questioned, swooned and the services of a physician were required in bringing her back to consciousness, after which she was taken from the place until she could recover more fully.

Coroner J. P. Caldwell conducted the inquest. District Attorney John S. Powers had charge of the questioning of the witnesses of which there were quite a number, in the interests of the commonwealth. State Fire Marshal Walter Gibbons was present in the interests of his department.

Lang Testifies

Arthur Lang, who resides next door to the Pagley property and about twenty feet to the south and above it, was the first witness examined and he stated that he had returned home about midnight from his work at the tin plant. It was around two a. m. Thursday morning and he was just dozing off to sleep after cleaning up and having a lunch, when his wife heard a noise and awakened him fully by exclaiming "What's that". He had told her that it was nothing and to go to sleep, when there was another noise, which sounded like somebody going downstairs where there was

Unfavorable Weather Has Delayed Colonel Lindbergh And Wife In Alaska

MAY CONTINUE TO CIRCLE THE WORLD

(International News Service)

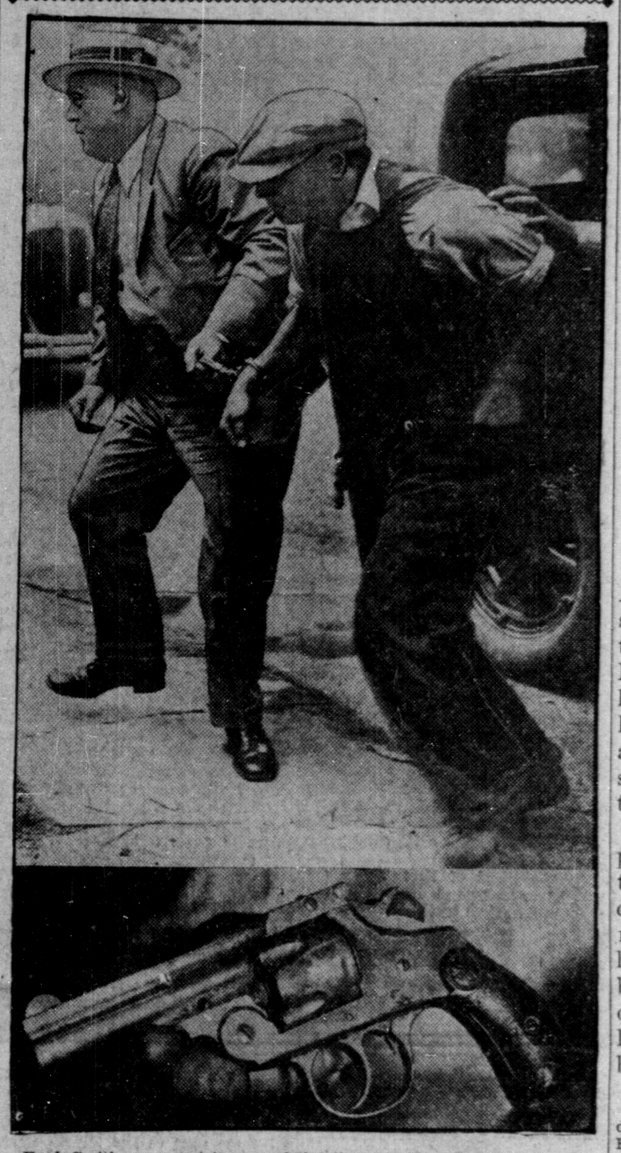
NOME, Alaska, Aug. 14.—The globe-girdling Lindberghs, delayed here by unfavorable weather for more than two days, early today hoped to get a "go" signal from meteorologists.

Announcement that the noted couple will attempt to circle the globe, continuing to Europe from their original vacation objective of Tokyo, was made by Colonel Lindbergh.

Eventually, if all goes well, the Colonel and his wife will terminate their vagabondage back in New York, their starting place, he said.

Before leaving the Orient, however, they plan to tour parts of China. They will probably cross the Atlantic by way of the Azores.

"FROM NOW ON"



Fred Smith, ex-convict, one of the three confessed slayers in the Ypsilanti, Mich., torch murders in which four high school children were held up and brutally beaten to death as they sat in a parked car on a lonely road, is shown here as he was taken into the jail at Ann Arbor, Mich. Smith, with David Blackstone, another ex-convict, and Frank Oliver, a young sign painter, pleaded guilty and were sentenced to life imprisonment in the state penitentiary shortly after their confessions were obtained. Below is the gun used in the crime and owned by Smith.

State Senator Is Shooting Victim In Woman's Room

Man Believed To Be New Jersey State Senator Shot In Blonde's Apartment

WOMAN TELLS HER STORY TO POLICE

"Mystery How Man Got In Room," Woman Says, Police Are Investigating

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Aug. 14—A man said to be State Senator Roy T. Yates of New Jersey, was mysteriously shot today in the apartment of a woman on West 89th street. A report on the shooting was supressed for hours while the victim was taken to a hospital in a private ambulance.

One bullet was found to have ploughed into the wounded man's abdomen and his condition was critical.

The shooting took place in a twelfth floor apartment and police found a .25 calibre pistol from which a shot had been fired in the courtyard below.

Woman Tells Story

The woman in whose apartment the shooting occurred, Ruth Jayne, 25, described as a "beautiful blonde" was questioned by Inspector John Griffith. She insisted the shooting was a mystery to her.

"I was asleep in bed and woke up to find someone choking me," she said. "I must have fallen unconscious for I woke up again a little later and there, bleeding and unconscious on the floor, lay Mr. Yates."

Colorado Girl Accuses Father Of Slaying Her Sweetheart—Man Confesses

FOLLOWED PAIR IN LOVE TRYST

(International News Service)

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo., Aug. 14.—"I did it. Now let me rest."

With this remark, R. G. King today had branded himself the murderer of Louis Palmer, boy friend of his daughter, Glenda, according to police.

King was accused of the slaying yesterday afternoon by his daughter. A few hours later, after intense questioning, he called for a clergyman. When none could be found he broke down and made his confession, authorities said.

Before charging her father with the crime, Glenda had told conflicting stories, first naming one reputable young man and then another. She said she had been forced to tell these stories by her father.

Glenda declared her father, on the night of July 20, trailed her and Palmer to their favorite trystring place and then shot Palmer.

Cleveland Robber Instantly Killed

(International News Service)

CLEVELAND, Aug. 14—An unidentified youth, about 18, was shot to death here today when he attempted to break into the rear entrance of a Cleveland residence, police said.

Detectives who investigated the youth's death said a shotgun had been placed inside the rear door and rigged up in such a manner that it went off when the would-be robber opened the door.

The youth was killed instantly.

CROWD ATTEMPTS TO LYNCH THEM

"No Wonder Crowd Is Howling For Vengeance", Says Sentencing Judge

(International News Service)

JACKSON, Mich., Aug. 14 As the finale to a drama of swift-moving Michigan justice, two white men and one Negro today started serving life terms in the state prison here for the brutal murder and cremation of two high school boys and their "petting party" companions.

Considered secure in the penitentiary against any attempts at mob violence, the confessed slayers are to remain at Jackson until the high public feeling aroused by their crime will have quieted sufficiently to allow their safe transfer to the branch prison at Marquette.

Fast Time

It was a record-breaking procedure which put David Thomas Blackstone, 33, a Negro, Fred Smith, 23, and Frank Martin Oliver, 19, all of Ypsilanti, behind the bars. Confessing in the afternoon, they were given a trial of less than half an hour, and sentenced immediately to life on four charges of murder each.

In sentencing the trio, Judge George W. Sample, at Ann Arbor, declared it was no wonder that "the crowd is howling for vengeance." Michigan has abolished capital punishment.

Following the trial, a mob of from 8,000 to 10,000 collected at the Ann Arbor courthouse and clamored for the lives of the men whom the judge characterized as "fiends." Twice the officers in charge had to snatch the captives from the bloodthirsty mob, and they had to charge through the crowd again when they brought the trio to Jackson.

Just before leaving for Jackson last night the authorities received a report of an ambush by Bert Lore and Harry Wheatley, fathers, of the two boy victims. It was said that they and their friends were lying in wait outside Ann Arbor to take the killers.

They had sprinkled the highway with glass to puncture the automobile tires and force the authorities' cars to stop, according to the report. The officials took another route to Jackson and brought the murders to the prison a few minutes before midnight.

Body Of Missing Airman Believed Sighted Floating

Norwegian Trawler Reports Sighting Body Believed That Of Parker Cramer

SEA TOO ROUGH; BODY UNRECOVERED

Members Of Trawler Crew Say Body Was Clothed In Flying Togs

(International News Service)

LONDON, Aug. 14.—A body believed to be that of one of the missing trans-Atlantic flyers, Parker Cramer and Oliver Pacquette, was observed afloat twenty to thirty miles northwest of the Shetland Islands today by members of the crew of the Norwegian Trawler Sjoglimt, according to a dispatch received in London from Oslo.

The rough water made it impossible for the Trawler to secure the body which was clothed in what appeared to be flying togs.

Cramer and Pacquette left Lerwick, Shetland Islands, Sunday on the last lap of their flight from Detroit to Copenhagen via Greenland and Iceland. They were believed to have been forced down during a storm over the North Sea.

Hope To Recover Body

(International News Service)

OSLO, Aug. 14.—Efforts were being made today by Norwegian fishermen to recover the body, believed to be that of Parker D. Cramer, missing American trans-Atlantic airman, seen floating in the North Sea about 25 miles northwest of Shetland Islands.

News of the sighting was brought to Haugesund, Norway, by the crew of the Danish trawler soejlint. Heavy seas prevented the craft from going sufficiently close to the body to effect a rescue, but Captain Joergensen of the Soejlint said there was no doubt the man was dead.

The body was dressed in aviator's clothing and was floating upright, supported by a life preserver. The crew said it closely tallied with the description of Cramer, whose radio operator, Oliver Pacquette, also was lost.

Cramer and Pacquette disappeared after taking off from Lerwick, in the Shetland Islands, for Copenhagen on the last lap of their trans-Atlantic flight over the sub-Arctic route.

for a short period until the commission can give the required notice and draft new orders.

Commission members said that new orders would be issued as quickly as possible.

Will Use Force

Austin, Tex., Aug. 14—Governor Ross Sterling's threat to send National guardsmen into the field today hung over the heads of oil well operators.

The executives said he would call out the militia to enforce closing of the wells, following the example of Governor William H. Murray of Oklahoma, in the event operators disobey the new state conservation act.

The new law is expected to cut production of Texas oil 20 per cent in the fight to raise the price of petroleum.

Agreement Sought

Tyler, Tex., Aug. 14—The East Texas royalty and Land Owner's Association, which has been sponsoring a voluntary shut-down of East Texas oil wells, had decided against the shut-down today and was seking, instead, to crystalize sentiment to an acceptance of proration as it will be ordered under the state's new conservation law.

Independent operators all over the field were being asked to sign an agreement to abide by proration orders to be issued by the State Railroad commission. New proration orders, which will be issued the latter part of this month, are expected to set an allowable of around 250,000 barrels per day for East Texas as against the approximately 700,000 barrels now being produced.

It was pointed out by officials of the association that production curtailment can be obtained more easily than a complete shut-down and that, if strictly enforced, will be very nearly as effective in restoring prices as the shut-down would be.

25 Cent Prices Today

Longview, Tex., Aug. 14—All major companies buying crude in the East Texas oil fields were expected to post 25 cents per barrel prices today, following the lead of the Magnolia Petroleum company.

The Magnolia Company responded immediately to the reaction following passage of the state's new oil conservation measure, and raised its posted price five cents late yesterday.

It was the only company with a flat posted price in East Texas. Other companies buying 'on the market" at around 15 cents per barrel.

All Companies Slash

The Sun Oil Company receiving news of the change in Magnolia's price too late yesterday to change its own price, indicated that it probably would meet the price today. Humble Oil and Refining company and the Texas Company also were expected to post the 25 cent price today.

A great deal of East Texas Oil sold as low as seven cents the last four weeks and the 20 cent price paid by Magnolia was considered the top. The average price for the field was 14.9 cents.

American Fliers Will Be Indicted

Japanese Government To Indict Herndon-Pangborn For Flying Without Permission

BOTH AIRMEN ARE GRILLED SEVERELY

By JAMES R. YOUNG
International News Service Staff Correspondent

TOKYO, Aug. 14.—The public procurator or district attorney decided to indict Hugh Herndon and Clyde Pangborn today on a charge of flying without permission over a fortified zone, waiving the more serious charge of violation of the military secrets protection law.

The American flyers were grilled again today for seven to eight hours by members of the procurator's staff and after the examination the procurator and his staff went into conference to decide the penalty to be meted out to the aviators.

The young men, who were placed under surveillance after their arrival here more than a week ago from Khabarovsk with the intention of attempting a non-stop flight from Tokyo to Seattle, were instructed today not to leave their hotel without telling their destination.

QUICK JUSTICE FOR CONFESSED PETTER BANDITS

Harry Lore, Ypsilanti high school boys, was motivated by the fact that one of the murderers believed he was recognized by Lore in a $2 holdup, according to the confessions.

The giant Negro, Blackstone, was the first to confess. Breaking down after extended questioning in the Ypsilanti jail, he disclosed how the two couples lost their lives. He implicated Smith, who confessed and in turn implicated Oliver. Oliver was taken into custody and also confessed. Blackstone and Smith are ex-convicts.

The white men asserted Blackstone killed the youngsters, while the Negro blamed the whites.

Following the solving of the crime at Ypsilanti, Sheriff Jacob Andres and other authorities battled their way through a vengeance-seeking crowd and departed with their prisoners for Ann Arbor. The captives' clothes were torn by the mob, and they narrowly escaped lynching.

At Ann Arbor, the prisoners were taken through a large crowd with less difficulty. Judge Sample was summoned and the officers sought to take the killers from the jail to the courthouse, a distance of one and one-half blocks.

Attempt Lynching

A furious attempt was made to lynch the Negro, although the two whites were safely escorted in an automobile. Finally, Blackstone and his guards reached the courthouse. The prisoner showed great relief.

Hoots of the crowd were heard outside as the trial was in progress. After hearing the stories of Smith and Oliver Judge Sample sentenced all three men to life imprisonment for each of the four murders. Blackstone was not placed on the stand. The sentences are not to run concurrently, so the trio stand no chance of winning freedom for good behavior.

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Aug. 14.—Katherine Keller, 25-year-old heiress of a former judge and sweetheart of Fred Smith, one of the three Michigan torch murders, was arrested today and placed in jail here. Police, when they raided the woman's home, declared that they found the second revolver used in the brutal massacre and more blood-stained clothing worn by Smith.

Miss Keller inherited $35,000 from the late Judge Darwin Curtis, of Ann Arbor, who had taken the girl into his home as an infant. Smith also was a protege of Judge Curtis.

State police are to question the woman to see if she can throw further light on the murders of the two young boys and their pretty girl companions. Miss Keller was known to have been with Smith five hours before the slayings occurred.

According to Clarence Snyder, a deputy sheriff, Smith said that Miss Keller accompanied him, Frank Oliver and the Negro, when they first held up the four youngsters.

Miss Keller, Smith declared, was left at Ypsilanti when the two cars—the bandits machine and the auto with the kidnapped young folk—went through that city toward Tuttle Hill road where the attacks and the murders are alleged to have taken place.

Questioned by police, the heiress denied that she was with the men. She said that she had been visited by Smith earlier in the evening but did not accompany them at the start of the gruesome ride.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Aug. 14—The $5,000 reward posted for the capture and conviction of the Washtenaw county torch murderers, will go to Frank Johnson, a negro, part time employe of an automobile factory and alleged police stool pigeon, according to prosecutor Harry S. Toy today.

Johnson turned the .38 caliber revolver used in the killing over to police. The gun was traced to David Blackstone, a negro, who implicated Fred Smith. The latter two in turn revealed the name of the third slayer, Frank Oliver.

TROOPERS BEGIN ADVANCES TODAY

(International News Service)

CAMP KEMP, MT. GRETNA, Pa., Aug. 14.—Field combat maneuvers, mounted and afoot, today occupied squadrons of the 103rd and 104th Cavalry at the Pennsylvania National Guard training camp here.

Under Cols. Arthur Colahan, Philadelphia, and E. J. Stackpole, Harrisburg, troopers today began an advance on enemy forces through hostile territory. Each cavalryman carried one cooked meal for himself, a grain ration for his mount and full field equipment. One war strength rifle platoon with a machine rifle squad from each troop accompanied the mounted columns.

The columns advanced through territory theoretically being peppered by enemy machine gun and artillery fire. When they reached the combat zone troopers were dismounted, mounts sent to the rear and a dismounted cavalry combat began. Landscape and silhouette targets were fired upon and marksmanship scores were recorded by instructor-officers.

Will Make Rating

Rating of various troops will be calculated later, the troopers being scored 40 percent for marksmanship and fifty percent for leadership, leadership being counted most important phase of such combat.

The entire afternoon was devoted to preparation for the annual field inspection and brigade review which will be held tomorrow. Every bit of equipment was cleaned and polished for inspection.

Regimental reviews of both Cavalry outfits were held last evening with troopers in their best kits in celebration of cessation of rain which drenched the camp for three days and turned the training area into a sea of mud.

Captain Hawks Is Honored By Sioux

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Aug. 14—Captain Frank Hawks had a new title and another new flying record today. He was christened Chief Flying Hawk by Sioux Indians at a powwow at Hot Springs, S. D. Thursday and then flew to New York, making record trip of three hours and 46 minutes for the flight from Chicago to New York.

He also established what was believed to be a record for the trip from Hot Springs, a distance of 1,546 miles, by whirling that distance in eight hours and 48 minutes elapsed time.

Hawks' time for the Chicago-New York flight was almost 20 minutes faster nthan the recent record set for the distance by James Goodwin Hall, New York aviator.

Object To Smoke Soot From Plant

Council today received a petition from Elm street residents, which alleged that the smokestack was not high enough and soot which emerged from boilers of the Fish plant flew through the neighborhood. Council directed Solicitor White to start an action in equity to abate the smoke and soot nuisance.

WEDDED AT DAWN

Mistress—You look a wreck today, Norah. Have you been sitting up all night again reading a novel?

Norah—Yes, mum. It was such a beautiful story, but they didn't get married till nearly four o'clock this morning.

The song "Annie Laurie" was written by a suitor of Annie Laurie, the daughter of Sir Robert Laurie.

W. W. Sniff To Be Preacher Sunday At Liberty Grange Hall

Community Religious Services At That Place Are Attracting Many People

During the summer months a community religious service has been held in Liberty Grange hall in Scott township, six miles east of the city on the Harlansburg road, every Sunday evening. Public spirited Christian people in Scott and the adjoining townships have been assuming the leadership in the enterprise, with the result that a large number of people have attended and enjoyed the meetings.

A different minister has given the sermon each evening. The coming Sunday evening the sermon will be by W. W. Sniff, who is pastor of the Madison avenue Christian church in New Castle and of the Oak Grove Christian church on the Frew Mill road. The promoters of this commendable union community movement have been well pleased at the interest shown and the spirit manifested. Eight o'clock, eastern standard time, is the time of the service.

Rev. J. D. Regester Will Preach Sunday

Rev. J. R. Regester of Tacoma, Wash., a former New Castle boy, will fill the pulpit at the Croton avenue Methodist church at the morning service.

Rev. Regester fills the chair of philosophy and psychology at the Puget Sound College and there will be many of his former friends out to greet him Sunday.

ISAAC GEORGE HOME SCENE OF NICNIC

The spacious grounds of the Isaac George home at Auburn Stop formed a most pleasing background for the picnic of the Mothers' Class of the Primitive Methodist church when the members with their families ,to the number of 86, assembled Thursday for the annual picnic.

Beautiful summer flowers had been placed about the porches and through the living rooms of the home and long tables were arranged on the lawn for the serving of a most delicious hot supper, which was furnished by the women of the class.

The after dinner hours were spent informally, with the younger members spending the time at miniature golf and the older ones wandering through the greenhouses and admiring the plants and flowers.

Special guests were Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Seneff, and daughter, Mildred, Conneautville.

The committee who made preliminary arrangements and whose work turned out so successfully were Mrs. Clara Bowen, Mrs. Richard Boughton, Mrs. George Smith, Mrs. T. H. Bowen and Mrs. Frank Chappel.

September 8, Mrs. Mollie Dyson will entertain the class at the Y. W. C. A.

Open Door Class

The members of the Open Door Class of the Third United Presbyterian church gathered Thursday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Brown, Cunningham avenue for the regular monthly meeting.

Mrs. Howard Burdette led the opening devotionals and Harry Beighley presided at the business meeting when matters of importance to the class were discussed and plans made for a corn and wiener roast for Thursday, August 20, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Bixler on the Youngstown road.

The social hour was in charge of Mrs. Harry Beighley and some novel games were played, with Harold Brown winning the prize for the evening.

Mrs. Jennie Urban was a special guest, and also assisted the hostess in serving lunch.

Queen Sewing Circle

The Queen Sewing Circle members were entertained Thursday afternoon in the home of Mrs. E. E. Blaine, Walnut street, with sewing and general conversation whiling away the hours.

Miss Goldie Blaine assisted her mother in serving refreshments at the close of the afternoon.

The next meeting will be in the form of a picnic dinner at the summer cottage of Mrs. Gladys Kenehan, Wilmington Junction.

Dance At Field Club.

On Saturday evening, members of the New Castle Field club house will gather for another of their informal dances which has been planned for their entertainment. Splendid music is promised for this occasion, and everything points to a delightful evening for those who attend.

Cards will also be featured for those not desiring to participate in the dance. Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Gilum will act as hosts and award the prizes at the conclusion of the bridge contest.

PIPING GASOLINE

GASOLINE is being piped from Oklahoma to Chicago. Natural gas is being piped from the wells to cities a thousand miles away and are being extended in a new surge of gas exploitation. Oil pipelines cover the nation.

This is bad news for the railroads, for which it means loss of profitable business. Piping of gasoline means that more of it will be refined at the wells instead of in the great centers of distribution, and the piping of more natural gas ultimately will shut down many plants for the manufacture of fuel gas.

Developments in the piping of gasoline forecast the time when gasoline service stations and other bulk buyers in cities and towns will be served by pipe lines from a central distributing point, which will receive its supplies by pipe direct from the refinery. It would be a severe blow to truck manufacturers and drivers but would be afforded positive traffic relief and probably would effect a saving for the motorist.

High cost of transportation has made it necessary for industry to go to the sources of raw materials to do its work of conversion into the finished product, which accounts for much of the recent transplantation of labor and manufacturing units, to the permanent loss of some communities and the gain of others. Further adoption of the pipeline is encouraged by the same conditions.

OCEAN AIR ROUTES LOOM

Aviation seems to have caught up rather suddenly to the expectations aroused by Lindbergh's flight in 1927. It is by no means easy as yet to go to Europe by air, but the experience of this busy summer indicates that the chances have turned definitely in favor of those who attempt the trip in a modern airplane and under reasonably good conditions.

Such remarkable progress has aviation made this summer in transocean flying that this may eventually be considered the true beginning of practical travel overseas by air. Five of the 14 completed transatlantic flights were made this summer.

Though spanning oceans in airplanes has become rather commonplace, the latest flights were not without spectacular elements. The Cape Cod flew 5,000 miles in 49 hours and 20 minutes, maintaining almost exactly the speed of 102 miles an hour that was expected. Pangborn and Herndon kept their transocean schedule of 32 hours almost to the minute. And the Lindberghs are crossing continents and hopping from one continent to another as nonchalantly as an auto tourist jumping state borders.

Perhaps the most significant development in aviation this year is the fact that its successes have made a more lasting impression upon the lay mind than its failures. There have been fatal accidents, but they have not stemmed the tide of popular acceptance of the airplane as a means of transportation.

TRADING IT IN

Companies with many salesmen, each of whom requires an automobile to call on his trade, have evolved several methods of keeping truck of car costs, and at the same time of keeping down the cost of car operation. These methods vary in particulars, but they are all directed to the same end—fairness to the company, fairness to the salesman, and the determination of the exact point at which it is advantageous to dispose of the car and obtain a new one.

In nearly all these schemes it is not cost per mile that the company is interested in, so much as it is the profitable life of the car. In the life of every car the moment arrives when it is more profitable to trade it in for a new car than to pay for ever-increasing repairs and renewals. Beyond that point, its value depreciates with great rapidity.

Several years of experience have taught the company the average life of each type of car it owns. Depreciation is charged off accordingly. If a salesman has taken such care of his car that at the of its average life it is still running efficiently and economically, the car is kept in service and depreciation is no longer charged against it, thus producing an immediate saving in the salesman's expense account. Thus the salesman has a real inducement to treat his car carefully.

It would be a good thing for the private car owner if he, too, were to keep books on his car, giving it a certain life, charging monthly depreciation against it, and then trying, by taking extra good care of the machine, to lengthen its average life period and thus build up a bonus for himself. By this method, too, he would soon be able to figure the moment when it would be better to trade the car in than to begin rebuilding it. It doesn't take much effort to keep tab, and in the long run it is profitable.

What Do They See in Each Other?
People Wonder
But He and She Know Very Well

By MARSHALL MASLIN

What does she see in him? And what does he see in her?

Dull people see them pass and wonder. Friends who have known her all their lives wonder "why on earth she ever married him." His friends are puzzled, too. They knew him so well. They knew just the kind of girls he liked. They thought he'd never marry. They say—in scorn, in condescension, in bewilderment—"What does he see in her?" They prophesy disaster.

They wag their heads and promise that this strange marriage will never turn out well. Because he likes ham and eggs and she likes waffles; because he likes a gay time and she likes a quiet one; because he talks all the time and she prefers to listen; because he dances while she prefers to play the violin; because he's a business man and she's an artist. And they're so different.

Well, what DOES she see in him and what does HE see in her?

It's not our business. It's theirs alone, and they will not tell us. We do not count at all. We are the scoffers, we are the doubters, we at this moment are aliens to them. . . . But all his life he had been waiting for her. He had been waiting to grow wise and to reach that moment when he could fall in love with a woman like her. And she, too, had been waiting for him.

Neither of them knew that this was true. He did not know he was merely marking time for her sake. Nor did she know that, either. They would have scoffed if you had told them such a sentimental truth.

But when they met at last, or when they saw each other with new eyes—after knowing each other for years—they fell in love. They could not tell you how it happened, how each for the other came so beautifully to life. . . . But each, in the other, saw Beaty and Peace and Strength and Understanding. And each said, "With this one: I can be Myself at last."

So there they are, He and She. And the world thinks it strange she should have married him and that he—out of all girls in the world—should have chosen her. But they see something in each other that only they can see—and that explains everything. . . . And when we go to their house to dinner we'll have a pleasant time.

THE VAMP GAME

An attractive girl in your establishment do you attempt to vamp your boss?

You think it a pretty good way to retain your position or get an increase in salary, it isn't that you really care about him.

You are playing with fire.

Also you are hurting your reputation among your associates.

You are selling your good name cheap, and paying a high price at the same time, for no position is worth a bad name.

The man who would permit you to jeopardize your good standing in society would eventually be unscrupulous in his dealings with you.

You would remain in his good graces just as long.

Even though you do your utmost to please him he will discard you for one who provides the variety he seeks and demands.

There is only one outcome for you and you will be the loser.

You think to play a game to keep your job but instead you lose it.

Better go back to the little home town where you make less and keep to high ideals than to try to "vamp" game to gain more money. It does not last.

The cost is too high.

What Has Become of the Old-fashioned Man Who Used to Drink A Lot of Peruna Just To Get His Picture in the Paper?

Man is of few days and full of trouble. He laboreth all the days of his youth to pay for a gasoline chariot, and when at last the task is finished, La! the thing is junk and needeth another. He planteth grain in the earth and tilleth it diligently, he and his servants and his asses, and when the harvest is gathered into barns he oweth the landlord eight dollars and forthy cents more than the crop is worth. He borroweth money from the lenders to buy pork and syrup and gasoline and the interest eateth up all that he hath. He begets sons and educateth them to smoke cigarettes and wear a white collar, and Lo! they have soft hands and neither labor in the fields nor anywhere under the sun. The children of his loins are ornery and one of them becometh a lawyer and another sticketh up a filling station and maketh whoopee with the substance thereof. The wife of his bosom necketh with a stranger and when he rebukes her, Lo! she shooteth him in the finale. He goes forth in the morning on the road that leadeth to the city and a jitney smiteth him so that his ribs project through his epidermis. He drinketh a drink of whoopee juice to forget his sorrows and it burneth the lining from his liver. All the days of his life he findeth no parking place and is tormented by traffic cops from his going forth until he cometh back. An enemy stealeth his car; physicians remove his inner parts and his teeth and his bank roll; his daughters showeth their legs to strangers; his arteries hardeneth in the evening of life and his heart busteth trying to keep the pace. Sorrow and bill collectors followeth him all the days of his life, and when he is gathered to his father's the neighbors sayeth: How much did he leave? Lo! he hath left it all. And his widow rejoiceth in a new coupe and maketh eyes at a young sheik that slicketh his hair and playeth a nifty game of bridge. Woe is man! William L. McLean Is Lauded As One Of Great Publishers

Death Of Philadelphia Newspaper Owner Turns Public Attention To His Contribution Toward Development Of Modern Methods Of Journalism

Tributes to the unusual qualities of William L. McLean, publisher of the Philadelphia Evening Bulletin, are paid by other newspapers of the country as death ends the career of one of the conspicuous representatives of modern American journalism. Hs is credited with a substantial share in the creation of the kind of newspaper work that has won the confidence and loyalty of the public through constant search for truth in the news. His influence was exerted also as a director of the Associated Press and the American Newspaper Publishers' Association.

The esteem in which he was held on his own paper, The Evening Bulletin, is expressed editorially by that publication in the statement: "We called him Chief. And in that word, there was expressed loyalty, trust, devotion. We knew his worth, appreciated his experience and wisdom, were inspired by his vision. He was a Chief; a leader as well as director; a friend as well as an employer; his counsel was sound, his criticism helpful. Those who have had personal contact with him may have known him best, but there was no place in the organization to which his influence did not reach or where his personality was not felt. There was in him the quality of leadership that did more than secure service; it invoked zeal and co-operation. Twenty-three years ago, May 4, 1908, the employes of The Bulletin, through a committee, presented to Mr. McLean a testimonial of their association with him, then for a period of thirteen years, in which it was said: 'We wish to express, and here record, our appreciation of the good will, the sense of justice, the patience, the helpfulness and the manly simplicity which have invariably marked your relations to each and all of us, in our comings and goings, in the course of many years. We have ever found you kindly in speech, wise in counsel, considerate in criticism, just in reproof; and we have felt firmly, from day to day, the impress of your directing hand on every part of our organization, and never heavily or harshly.' Twenty-three more years have passed. Men and women have come and gone. But this testimony stands, and, without the change of a letter, is the heart-throb of The Bulletin organization as it stands today with heads bowed, in reverence, in the presence of death."

"He was the kind of newspaper man that most newspaper men aspire to be," declares the HARRISBURG TELEGRAPH, stating that "the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth" might well have been his motto. The Telegraph adds: "Like most of those who have grown up in that profession and have given to it the best years of their lives, he placed the good name of his newspaper above all else, and saw in its ownership only an incentive to the most careful administration of the stewardship thus entrusted to him."

"His death is a great loss to American journalism, in which he long had been a prominent figure," says the BUFFALO EVENING NEWS, recognizing that, "through adherence to high ideals and principles of service, he won and held a large measure of public confidence and support. * * * He strove constantly for better things, to have the American press live up to its responsibility to the public." The SPRINGFIELD (MASS.) REPUBLICAN holds that "his strength and the strength of his paper lay in the fact that, to a degree difficult and rare in so large an organization as metropolitan journalism requires, he maintained a knowledge and commande of detail in every department and impressed his personality throughout."

"Mr. McLean furnished as strong a contrast as could be named," according to the BALTIMORE SUN, "to the coterie of journalists who in years gone by dominated the great newspepers of the country — the Greeleys, Danas, Wattersons and others whose papers reflected their individual views and their personalities. A modest and retiring man, he readily accommodated himself to the impersonality of modern journalism and devoted himself to the upbuilding of The Bulletin making it a powerful instrument in the cultural and business progress of Philadelphia. He was in no sense a crusader, but was untiring in support of reform movements. He clung to the conservative type of newspaper, eschewed sensationalism in both its appearance and contents, and achieved a unique success by sound and wholesome methods."

Recalling that he was a product of the Pittsburgh newspaper field, The Post-Gazette of that city states that "he was one of the conspicuous figures in American journalism and his loss will be widely felt." That paper reviews his career: "Mr. McLean was born in Mt. Pleasant, Westmoreland county, in 1852, and it was as a young man of twenty years that he came to Pittsburg. He gained employment with the old Leader, remaining in its business department for six years when he went to Philadelphia as business manager of the old Press. When this paper was still active Mr McLean brancned out for himself and purchased control of The Bulletin. In the 36 years in which he was president and publisher many honors came to him. Among these was a directorship of the Associated Press which he held for 28 years, his son, Robert McLean, succeeding him in 1924. Under his control his newspaper advanced steadily to leadership. Its present standing is testimony to his power as an executive."

"He was reckoned by the newspaper fraternity as one of the great publishers of his time," avers the SCRANTON TIMES, emphasizing the fact that "during all of his career as a publisher he kept free from alliances, business or political, which might interfere with his freedom as a publisher, rejecting many proffers of political advancement in particular." The ALTOONA MIRROR calls his paper "one of the most conspicuously successful newspapers in the country," and appraises Mr. McLean as "a public-spirited citizen, supporting all movements designed for human betterment."

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

TWO HEARD EN-ROUTE

A negro charged with stealing a watch had been arraigned before the court. The judge was not at all impressed with the evidence, was not convinced that he was guilty and said:

"You are acquitted, Sam."

"Acquitted," repeated Sam doubtfully, "what do yo' all mean, judge?"

"That is the sentence: you are acquitted."

Still looking somewhat confused, Sam said: "Judge, do' dat mean I has to gib de watch back?"

"Mose, what would you do if you received a letter from the Ku Klux Klan?' 'a Georgia negro was asked.

"Well, suh, I'd read de letter on de train," replied Mose.

TO A GOLFER IN A SLUMP

Sit and tell me all about it.
I am sure I'll understand.
Spill your story. I'll not doubt it.
Has the cunning left your hand?
For a week have you been getting
All the cuppy lies and ruts
And, what's even more upsetting
Are you missing easy putts?

Sad of face and oh so weary
Every night you seem to be!
You who were so blithe and cheery
When you shot that eighty-three.
As I've watched you I have wondered
Daily for a week more
Is your score again a hundred?
Are you slicing as before?

Can it be that you are trailing
Brassie shots and don't know why?
Is that faithful iron failing
Howsoever fair the lie?
Surely all the cares of banking
Couldn't make you look so glum!
Possibly a fit of shanking
Unexpectely has come?

Cheer up, sad and dismal brother.
There is nothing you can do,
Though it's maddening drives to smother.
Not alone in grief are you.
You are in a slump and vain it
Is on skill or strength to call,
And no golfer can explain it,
But it happens to us all.

Troop "F" Considered For Annual Rodeo

By FOREST L. FLORIDA

COLEBROOK, Pa., Aug. 14.—The weatherman spoiled the plans for a review for the Governor this afternoon by sending up a severe rain storm. At the last minute orders received to call off the review until tomorrow morning. And when the Army postpones any of its activities on account of rain it is Raining.

The Troops kitchen and mess hall was rated today as the best in the regiment. To get such a rating is the result of a lot of hard work on the part of the kitchen detail and they are to be highly praised for their efforts.

Lieut. Mitchell and his machine rifle platoon have been getting their share of the praise too. He has one of the best, if not the best machine rifle platoon in the regiment and he is making all the other troops sit up and take notice. Lee N. Stewart is the platoon Sergeant and the Corporals are Palmer and Spiker.

Consideration is being given to the suggestion that this troop put on the annual rodeo held at camp by the brigade. This troop has one of the best "monkey drill" outfits I've ever seen and the reputation of it has reached the ears of Regimental Headquarters. It is quite possible we may do so, provide the jealousy of the other troops at being cut out dosen't stop it. Our outfit will make the other troops eyes open up.

Homer A. Measel, our efficient Stable Sergeant, is, as usual, running the stables in a splendid manner that has not been critized in any way. Our own horses ard those issued to us are in the prime of condition and standing the hard grind excellently. The horses are being used for drill purposes about seven hours per day which is quite an increase of work over the amount done at home.

About all there is left to write about today is the weather and it is sufficient to say that "it still rains."

Small Increase Of Native Whites Is Shown In State

Average For Nation As Whole Exceeded By Those Of Mixed Parentage

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 14.—Whites of native and foreign parentage showed a much smaller percentage increase in Pennsylvania than in the nation during the past ten years, but the whites of mixed parentage in the state increase at a higher rate in the state than in the country as a whole, according to statistics made public by the bureau of the census.

The increase of whites of native parentage was 13.8 per cent in Pennsylvania from 1920 to 1930 as compared with an increase of 20.1 per cent in the country as a whole Whites of foreign parentage increased 7.7 per cent in the state and 8.3 per cent in the nation. The national increase of whites with mixed parentage, on the other hand, was only 19.5 per cent while the increase in the state was 22.3 per cent. Foreign-born whites decreased 11.2 per cent in the state and 2.5 per cent in the nation.

Long Sought Man In Stock Fraud Finally Caught

James Ritchie, secretary of the defunct Atlantic Drug & Chemical company, in which a number of New Castle people lost money, has been captured in Chicago, according to word received by Pittsburgh authorities. The company is alleged to have peddled worthless stock all over western Pennsylvania. Several arrests were made in New Castle in connection with the case. Henry B. Bass was president of the company, Alex I. Thompson, A. S. Guyer and Rae E. Smith were other members.

See Battle For School Director

Many Candidates Seek Place On Grove City Board Of Education

GROVE CITY, Aug. 14.— With nine candidates for school director there is little doubt of the fact that this contest will be the most important of any on which the voters will cast ballots September 15. Even the county ticket will not equal the interest taken in the selection of nominees in each party for this office and that of council in which the field is as large. Many of the candidates are asking nominations on both Republican and Democrat tickets.

DRAW BIG PAY

The two local companies of the National Guard of Pennsylvania have drawn $5000 in pay for the year, states officers of the 112th Regiment to which they are attached. Grove City is headquarters for the regiment. The regiment has just returned from camp. The headquarters company of the regiment and the headquarters company of the first battalion recruited here drew camp pay amounting to $4,174.25 from the federal government and $697.50 from the state.

NAME JUDGES

Judges selected for the Grove City Accredited Cattle Association show of August 27-28 are announced today by Farm Agent Harold Waha.

Three breeds of dairy cattle will be shown. The work will be divided between H. C. McWilliams, County Agent of Cambria county and R. H. Olmstead of the State College force. Both are outstanding in the state for their knowledge of dairy cattle. It is expected that 150 head of Jersey, Guernsey and Holstein cattle will be shown.

PLAN REUNION

The Cummings-Reed Reunion will be held at Millburn on August 20. All members of the two families are urged to attend.

INVENTS AUTO ACCESOR

A "Joy Top" for rumble seat riders has been invented by Theodore Heffren of Grove City. The top is said to take care of any emergency as a protection for seat occupants. A patent has been applied for. It is said that a local company will be organized for its manufacture.

Watchman's Shot Frightens Thieves

Two automobile thieves were routed from the machine they had expected to steal last night at 10:30 p. m. when a watchman at the Barnes-Snyder Automobile company's used car lot on the Wilmington road fired a shot as they were about to make away in a parked machine.

Fred Getrost, the watchman, shot once, the bullet entering the body of the car. The thieves fled.

MISSING CHILD IS FOUND IN RIVER

SHARON, Pa., Aug. 14.—Firemen Thursday recovered from the Shenango river the body of Bernard Robinson, 6, son of Oscar Robinson, North Water avenue, who fell to his death from the New York Central railroad bridge Wednesday evening. Until the body was discovered the boy's whereabouts was not known definitely, as no one saw him on the bridge. After a thorough search of the city by the parents and police, firemen started to drag the river.

GARDEN HOUSES MINIATURE DAM

WEST BRANCH, Ia., Aug. 14.—A miniature reproduction of Hoover Dam, commonly called Boulder Dam on the Colorado river, has been constructed in the rock garden of Milton G. Randall here. The model, made of rocks, was copied from a picture of the dam in a magazine. Randall, distant relative of the president, gathered the rock from near the boyhood home of Mr. Hoover here.

DRIVER OF CAR HELD AFTER CRASH

SHARON, Pa., Aug. 14.—M. D. Bortz, R. D. 49 of Greenville, and a passenger in his car escaped with cuts and bruises when Bortz lost control of the machine at Stambaugh's Corners and drove into an embankment. Highway Patrolmen E. B. Snyder and J. W. Blythe, who investigated, said they will charge Bortz with driving without an operator's license.

TRUCK KILLS BABY; DRIVER EXONERATED

MT. PLEASANT, Pa., Aug. 14.—Samuel Bando, 4, son of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Bando of Mt. Pleasant, died from a fractured skull received when he was struck by a truck driven by Lloyd P Reinlinger Wednesday night. Deputy Coroner Dr. M. W. Horner investigated the case and said he regarded the death as accidental

"F" Progresses At Guard Camp

Expect Civilian Members Of Troop At Mount Gretna Camp Over Week-End

By FORREST L. FLORIDA

MOUNT GRETNA, Aug. 14.—Rounding out its first week at the camp of the state National Guard, Troop F, New Castle's own unit of the 103rd cavalry is already accomplishing what the officers and civilian sponsors of the outfit had hoped.

Parents at home will be interested to know that the troop is making fine progress. The morale is excellent. None of the boys have been injured.

Unfortunately the weather has been bad. Heavy rains fell both Sunday and Monday of this week, and the indications are that we will have a wet camp.

The officers here advise the civilian committee members and others who expect to arrive at the camp over the week-end to bring umbrellas and slickers on the trip.

There isn't any doubt that the troop will live up to all that is expected of it. The kind action of the New Castle Rotary club in placing confidence in the outfit is greatly appreciated by the officers and men.

While it is a little premature to definitely state just what the exact results of this camp will do for the troop, it can be said that if hard work and willingness to perform the duties in a proper spirit are necessary to finish what has been started the ability is here.

Warrants Out For Enon Robbers Who Stole Store Safe

County Detective Expects Arrest Of Pair Within Few Days, He Says

Warrants are out for the two men who figured in the daring robbery of the McNeis & McRoberts Clover Farm store, Enon Valley, July 24, when the store safe containing $300 in cash and $400 in checks was loaded on a truck and carted away from the store.

County Detective Lee said today that two men who participated in the robbery are known and will be arrested and brought to the county within two or three days.

Nashua Union.

The Nashua W. C. T. U. met on Thursday at the home of Mrs. H. A. Paland for the regular monthly meeting, with twenty six members and visitors present. Some of the younger folks took part in the program.

The devotionals were conducted by Mrs. Robison, and Mrs. Byler, president of the Harbor Union, was present and gave a talk on L. T. L. work, after which a Loyal Temperance Legion was organized and Mrs. Miller was named as leader, with Mrs. Smith and Sarah Snyder as helpers.

The election resulted in the old officers being returned for another year.

Miss Walker will be hostess for the next meeting, which will be September 8.

West Side Union

The West Side Union of the W. C. T. U. met Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. Robert Grooms, 17 North Greenwood avenue, with Mrs. T. D. Allen leading the opening devotionals.

Mrs. Robert Long read a piece, "Dry Dad," showing the righteous influence of a father over his son; Mrs. Groom read "Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt," the theme of which was that enforcement is the goal.

Mrs. Allen had an interesting paper saying that the World W. C. T. U. represents more than a million dauntless women who inherit the heroic faith and sublime courage of the temperance crusading women of fifty years ago; and in almost half a hundred leading nation gentle women, whose badge is a simple knot of white ribbon; women of all races, all creeds, steadfastly follow the gleam toward a goal of world sobriety, world morality and the universal outlawry of war.

Officers named for the following year were: president, Mrs. R. E. Long; vice president, Mrs. Ella Rote; secretary, Mrs. E. C. Cramer; treasurer, Mrs. R. G. Leslie; L. T. L. secretary, Mrs. A. J. Hunter Secretary, Mrs. Ella Rote.

Department directors are: Americanization, Mrs. Newton; Christian citizenship, Mrs. Ella Rote; Evangelistic, Mrs. T. D. Allen; Exhibits, Mrs. E. C. Cramer; flower mission and relief, Mrs. A. J. Three Are Found Slain In Alleged Brooklyn "Dive"

BELIEVED RENEWAL OF GANG WARFARE

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Aug. 14—A new outbreak of gang warfare and further defiance of police out to rid New York of gangsters, was seen today when the bodies of three men, slashed, stabbed and beaten to death were found in a Brooklyn Club.

A policeman, peping into a window of the club while investigating a report a fight had taken place there, discovered the bodies. The club was a speakeasy, police said, and two of the dead men, Charles Maturo and Robert Romano were believed connected with its management. The third was not identified.

Police said a preliminary investigation indicted the men were killed by invading New York beer racketeers. The unidentified man may have been a New York 'mobster' police said.

The club was strewn with bottles and two barrels of mush were discovered.

Four men were reported to have been seen running out of the club after the fight, the authorities said.

Key-Bankers Of State Will Meet

Two Mercer County Men Will Appear On Program At State College

MERCER, Aug. 14. — Western Pennsylvania bankers will appear on the program of the Pennsylvania Bankers Association gathering of their agricultural committee to be held at State College, August 25, 26 and 27. Chairman W. S. McKay of the committee announces today his selection of three bankers: Frank A. Glenn of the Exchange National Bank of Pittsburgh; E. B. Harshaw of the Grove City National, and E. B. Reed of the Farmers and Mechanics National of Mercer.

Mr. Reed is key-banker from Mercer county. The conference includes key-bankers from the 67 counties of the state. The purpose is to work out plans for economic improvement of the farms of Pennsylvania with the key-bankers the connecting link between the farmers and the Pennsylvania bankers.

Also listed on the program is T. D. Harmon of Pittsburgh, who heads a syndicate of farm papers.

NAMED ASSISTANT

J. C. Billig of State College has been named assistant in vocational work at Fredonia Vocational school. Stanley Fuhrer is head of the department. Fuhrer has been in bad health all summer, having just returned from the Walter Reid hospital.

ON SCHOOL PROGRAM

C. Hale Sipe of Butler, an authority on Pennsylvania history will be one of the featured speakers on the program of the Mercer County Teachers Institute to be held at Mercer starting the date of October 5th. The appearance of the speaker on previous programs has always resulted in the most ardent praise of his wide spread knowledge of the pioneer days of the state.

FEW PASS TESTS

Only half of the class of 80 that took the re-exams for high school entrance passed the tests reports County Superintendent W. M. Johnson.

There were 112 eligible to take the tests of the pupils failing at the tests of May 9th. They are eighth grade rural school pupils who must pass a test prefacing their matriculation to high school.

The educators state there was evidence of little preparation on the part of many of the class.

Sacred Concert Sunday Evening In Croton Church

Mrs. June Bernard, director of the choir at the Croton Avenue Methodist Episcopal church, has completed her program for the Sunday evening sacred concert. These concerts have featured the Sunday evenings during August and have proven most pleasing to the congregation.

There will be harp music by David Hopkins, violin numbers by D. Becano, solo work by various artists and numbers by a mixed quartet, as well as piano numbers. O. A. Rodgers will have charge of the devotional part of the program.

Jackson Harvest Home On Saturday

Dr. Homer B. Henderson, pastor of the United Presbyterian church of Grove City will speak at the annual Jackson Center Harvest Home, which will be held an Saturday August 15, at Jackson Park. Music, sports, dancing, addresses and several musical events have been planned by the committee.

Benny Leonard, after an absence of six years, plans to return to the prize ring. If he can take it on the chin as expertly as the public does, he should go far.—The Hamilton (Ont.) Spectator.

"Swat Fly" Still Good As Slogan

How Pests Spread Disease Explained By Dr. Clendening

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

Flies have been blamed for doing a great deal of harm in spreading disease, but the danger from them has been somewhat exaggerated. "Swat the fly" is still a good slogan, however, as much for the sake of comfort as of health. But the swat the fly campaign did not do one fractional part as much to decimate the fly as the invention of the automobile and the disappearance of the horse. With the removal of stables and consequently of manure piles, flies lost their most favorable breeding places and hence were stopped at the source.

Typhoid fever wa sthe disease in the old horse and buggy era that was especially attributable to flies. The method of spread was by contamination of food. The excrements from a typhoid patient contain many million typhoid germs even after convalescence is over, and flies lighting on this get the germs on their feet and into the sucking stomach and then flying to food and walking over it or regurgitating saliva from the sucking stomach onto the food, contaminate it. For this reason alone, but also to prevent contamination of the drinking water supply, all the dejecta of a typhoid patient should be thoroughly sterilized before being disposed of. Typhoid is now, however a rare disease.

Another disease spread by flies is infantile diarrhoea, the germs of which are spread by flies in the same way as is typhoid. Anti-fly work in New York, directed by Dr. Armstrong, has been thought to have done much towards the reduction in the incidence of this disease. Flies can, of course, contaminate wounds, and a fly in a surgical operating room causes as much commotion as an escaped circus tiger in a village street.

Careless tuberculosis patients who spit in the open may in this way spread disease by giving flies the chance to light on the sputum and catching tuberculosis germs on their legs light on another person's mouth or nostril and leave the infection there.

The only way to destroy flies effectively is to limit the possible breeding sites. A female fly lays about 150 eggs at a time. They hatch into maggots in eight of ten hours. The maggots move around actively in their breeding place—if in a manure pile they squirm down to the bottom or out to the sides—a trait which provides the best means of destroying them which is to pile manure on a raised platform of open slats: the maggots drop down between the boards and can be destroyed whole with kerosene.

After the adult fly hatches from the maggot stage it can fly a mile or more to find food and a good breeding ground. Several generations can be born in the course of a summer and such is the rapidity of breeding multiplication, it has been estimated that from one female 5,598,720,000,000 flies can be descended during one summer. During modern conditions of living—absence of good breeding places such as manure piles and open privies—flies do not begin to swarm noticeably until about the last of July.

Four Slayers, Oft Respited, To Die

Cambria County Quartet To Be Electrocuted Unless Governor Interferes

BELLEFONTE, Pa., Aug. 14.—Four condemned murderers from Cambria county will go to the death chair at Rockview penitentiary next Monday morning providing Governor Pinchot does not issue another respite, and this is not believed probable by authorities here, considering the fact that all the men have been respited some five or six times. The last refusal of a new trial was last week when the three judges of Cambria county, sitting en banc, refused the applications.

When the four men go to the chair it will be the first time in more than four years that four men have been electrocuted on the same morning, the last being on March 7, 1927, when the four Olney bank robbers of Philadelphia, were put to death.

The four doomed men are Carl Crow, Frank Cantilla, Frank Powell and Joseph Parsi, all of Johnstown, convicted of the murder of Louis Hoffman, on his farm in Adams township, Cambria county. As the murder was committed on July 14, 1928, they have enjoyed immunity from death longer than average murders.

One Man Band Proves It Was Not Drunk

BUFFALO, N. Y., Aug. 14.—Buffalo's one-man band, Raymond Green, was arrested when he tried to play his instruments "for his own amusement" on the street at 3 a. m.

"This band is the finest in the world," Green told Patrolman Thomas Cunningham, who arrested him for public intoxication. "You just wait, and you'll see."

All night long the police listened to "Keep Smiling," "Moonlight and Roses," "Moonlight Saving Time," and a dozen other tunes played by Green on a combination of washboard, cymbals, and a set of wooden shoes which he called "clickety-clacks."

When Green's case was called, the police and court attendants told Judge Peter Maul they guessed Green wasn't intoxicated after all.

"Case dismissed, and thanks for the music," said Judge Maul.

Smaller Industries Talk Trade Outlook

SILVER BAY, N. Y., Aug. 14. — Much encouraged by a poll of delegates disclosing definitely optimistic business sentiment, the smaller industries conference went into the details of their problems today.

Forty of the attending delegates were asked their opinions in a questionnaire by Harold F. Browne, chairman of the organization committee, and a member of the national industrial conference board.

Seventeen said they believed the depression over and that an upturn now is in progress. Nine held the contrary opinion, while seven were non-committal, though inclined to be optimistic. The others would not express an opinion.

SMITHY TRAVELS TO FARMS IN AUTO

BURLINGTON, Wis., Aug. 14.—Louis Wanasek, Budlington blacksmith, has found his business more profitable since he stopped waiting for horses to come to him and started going to them—in an automobile. When farmers telephone him now, Wanasek loads his forge, tools and new pairs of shoes into his automobile, and is on his way.

Parisienne's Country Cousin In Town To See The Shops And The Fair

By ALICE LANGELIER
International News Service Staff Correspondent

PARIS, Aug. 14.—If the Parisienne is famous for her smart chic, her cousin from the country is quite the contrary.

Just now the women form the provinces are coming in flocks to Paris to take advantage of the summer sales and to visit the International Colonial Exposition at Vincennes. They can be identified by their simple straight chemise dresses of several seasons ago, plain straw hats by no means off-the-face and low-heeled black shoes or felt slippers the French call "pantoufles."

The hats and gown she buys to take back home with her are not of the latest fashion, for she has no intention of going back to her little corner of France and be talked about by her neighbors. She selects frocks that were the mode two years ago, the time it takes for fashions to reach the provinces, although the farthest of them is no more than twenty hours distant.

Fashions in the little night cabarets in the capital change almost as quickly as fashions in hats and the proprietors of these establishments are almost as busy as the designers thinking up new quirks to please their customers.

At the present moment, with everything revolving around the Exposition, there is a great craze for negro singers together with as many pianos as possible. One night place boasts of two performers playing a huge double grand piano, with a third musician playing on an upright one behind.

More unique is the little dancing "boite," as the French call them, so small that it has the two grand pianos piled one on top of the other and a little platform built out for the "upstairs" musician playing directly over the other one's head.

Still another cabaret has only one piano but Sadee Jackson, negro singer hangs out there, and that's nuff said.

One In Each 100 Is Seeking Office

BEAVER, Pa., Aug. 14.—One candidate for every 100 persons in Beaver county has filed for entry in the primary, September 15. A total of 1,329 candidates have filed for various county, city, borough and township offices. Next Monday is the last day for withdrawals. In the county contests the Pinchot ticket will clash with the regular Republican organization. Judge Frank E. Reader, who is a candidate for re-election, has been endorsed by both organizations.

WOMAN IS SHOT BY HER FATHER

ALTOONA, Pa., Aug. 14.—Mrs. Edna Weaver, 35, was perhaps fatally shot yesterday, and her father-in-law, George Weaver, 60, was held on a charge of felonious shooting. Police said the shooting, which was done with a shotgun, climaxed a quarrel.

Woman Owns Historic Flag

OKLAHOMA CITY, Aug. 14.—A Confederate flag, yellowed with age and bullet torn, which waved at the head of Company C, 30th Tennessee infantry, during the Civil war, is to be presented to the Oklahoma Historical society.

The flag, now owned by Mrs. Sam R. Hawks, wife of the chairman of the Oklahoma state highway commission, was made by eight girls in Hartsville, Tenn., at the beginning of the war. The 11 stars, indicative of the 11 seceded states still are visible on the blue field.

Across the flag are written the words "Residence to Tyrants is Obedience to God."

The last battle in which the flag was unfurled was that at Fort Donelson. Mrs. Hawk's grandfather, Lieut. D. W. Carson, participated in the battle and came into possession of the flag.

2,000 Chemists To Hold Epochal Meeting Aug. 30

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—Chemistry, the "cornerstone of industry" and "the protector of human life," will pass in review before 2,000 chemists when the American Chemical Society holds its 82nd meeting at Buffalo, N. Y., during the week of August 30.

Activities to be described will reflect ceaseless effort in the nation's laboratories to devise new and more secure foundations for industry, to conquer disease, and to press the quest for a higher social order.

New tools for the science worker, fresh approaches to problems of medicine and public health, improved science training in schools and colleges, developments in the quantum theory and other spheres of pure science, and progress in the expanding field of industrial and engineering chemistry will be outstanding topics.

Sails To Face Jungle Perils For Rare Birds

By JAMES HILEMAN
International News Service Staff Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD, Calif., Aug. 14.—Embarked on an adventuresome tour during which he will collect thousands of dollars worth of rare birds and wild animals, Coulson B. Glick, bird and animal collector, has sailed for the Philippine Island, Java, Borneo, Sumatra and India.

Headquarters for his collections will be at Singapore. Preparations for shipping probably will be made there. The journey will be beset with many dangers since the collector and his party will have to search through dense jungles often at night in quest of their quarry.

From the William Wrigley bird farm on Catalina Island Glick had an order for seventy-five rare birds, many of them considered impossible to capture and deliver alive. These include requests for the hornbilled rhino; a kockabarra of the kingfisher species; the roulroul of the partridge family; several types of birds of paradise and many other birds.

Glick also had a request for 5,000 strawberry finches which will be shipped from Singapore. He will endeavor to capture several Malay pheasants which are beautifully feathered and colored with every known combination.

In India the collector will search for the little known mynah, a species of parrot which possesses uncanny ability to talk nearly as clearly as a human being. He also will look for the shama thrush, a rarity.

When his bird collections have been completed Glick will turn his attention to wild animals. He has requests for a mouse deer, which is about the size of a small dog and with legs slender as cigarettes; 12 apes and three gorillas. There are now but four gorillas in the United States, it is said.

MT. WASHINGTON, Vt., Aug. 14.—The first experimental forest—known as the Gale River Experiment Forest—under a new regulation whereby the Forest Service will designate primitive, natural, and experimental areas, representative of the various forest regions of the country has been established a few miles west of here in the National Forest.

The forest has an area of about 1,320 acres and is located in the spruce hardwood belt and conveniently situated for a study of the pulpwood forest problems of New England.

To further such work, an appropriation of $20,000 was made by Congress to carry on the study of forest planting, and studies of growth and field of northern hardwoods, at the Amherst Station.

In New Haven County, Connecticut, recently the only county in that state lacking a state forest, now has a forest of 2,000 acres which was presented by the Whittemore family.

United States Gains In Shipping

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14—A gain of 70,000 gross tons in the United States total was the outstanding exception to a general decline in the volume of merchant ships under construction in the principal shipbuilding countries of the World during the second quarter of the current year as compared with the first quarter, according to an analysis of world shipping figures by the Commerce Department's Transportation Division.

Total gross tonnage under construction during the second quarter in all countries (except Russia, for which figures are not available) announced to 1,826,000 tons in comparison with approximately 2,000,000 tons in the first quarter and 3,058,000 tons in the corresponding period of last year, are the figures compiled by Lloyd's Register of Shipping.

MINISTER CHAPLAIN IN TEXAS RANGERS

HOUSTON, Tex., Aug. 14.—The chaplain of the sheriffs' convention which met here recently is not a man who prays for law enforcement and considers his duty done.

For the chaplain was P. B. Hill of San Antonio, a full-fledged minister, who served pastorates in Virginia and then was a Presbyterian missionary in the Orient, but who in addition wears the badge of a Texas ranger captain.

Dr. Hill, or Captain Hill, has been a ranger for four years, getting his captaincy in February. He preaches peace and has never had to draw his pistol on a man, but when he's at work at his pearl and gold handled .45 is a part of his equipment, and he admits he knows how to use it."

NATIVES DIE IN AFRICAN TRIBE WAR

CAPETOWN, South Africa, Aug. 14.—A tribal war near Dundee, in Natal, broke out last week-end, resulting in the killing of 13 natives and the wounding of about 100 others.

Advice from Dundee said the fighting was due to a dispute between followers of a pretender to the chieftainship of the district and others loyal to the present chief.

The pretender's camp was attacked by 2,000 warriors and about 26,000 fight men were reported mobilizing to retaliate.

Royal Air Force aviators flew over the district and police reinforcements were sent to protect settlements.

THE PARENT PROBLEM

Parent Kept Humble By Depression

Don't Be Too Hard On Yourselves Dr. Myers Advises

By GARRY C. MYERS, PH. D.
Head Division Parental Education, Cleveland College, Western Reserve University.

As parents you get pretty blue sometimes. I know I do.

These experiences of depression are good for us, keeping us humble. I've often said we are in great need of humility. But we can have too much of it at any one time. When it comes too heavily and we feel exceeding lowly for a long period, then we need to be lifted out. We can help ourselves.

In my last book, "The Modern Parent," after picturing as vividly as I was able, your frailties and mine as parents, I have the following to say by way of caution to my readers:

"Now, please do not be too hard on yourself. First, find comfort in the fact that practically all of us parents do some of these things which, when examined critically, seem pretty bad. Just remember that every one who writes and speaks on problems of rearing children is human, just like yourself, and that many of them do not measure up to the standards which they set; that whereas they may excel in certain things, you also may be doing scores of things much better than they do; that your problems may have been much more complex and difficult than those they tell about and seem to solve so easily; and that whatever errors you have made you have not made on purpose. Parents like yourself do not try to be bad parents."

"We differ greatly from one another, of course. Some of the frailties which are most pronounced in me may be very faint in you; some of the things I do which greatly annoy my children you may rarely do, or you may do but very slightly in relation to your children.

"We may get tremendously discouraged when we try to match ourselves with our ideal parent (who does not exist). But as we look around us we easily can find ourselves excelling in some small trait of parenthood at least.

"Name to yourself the things you are sure you have done well. In some respects there may be few parents as praiseworthy as you are. When you get your attention upon a few of your apparent failures they may look so large that you are blinded to a number of your successes, which in terms of your experience as a parent may be so large and influential for the child's good and happiness as to render the failures which seemed overwhelming to you as mere shadows. It is sometimes hard for us to keep perspective and to give ourselves due credit for our own victories."

I shall be glad to answer, in these columns, questions addressed to me in care of this paper, provided these questions seem to be of general interest.

If you have a question you would like to have answered personally, write me, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Increase Is Shown In Wild Animals

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—The number of big game animals in the national forests has passed the million mark, according to the annual census by the forest service. The average increase in the past year was nine percent, chiefly in deer, although elk also have gained considerably. The number of deer in the national forests is estimated at close to 900,000.

JAP GIRL NAMED IN AMERICAN'S WILL

MEDIA, Pa., Aug. 14.—A 10-year-old Japanese girl, Fuji Hashimoto Adamson, was the principal beneficiary of the $914,859 estate of William B. Adamson, according to an inventory filed with the register of wills today.

The girl, the child of Japanese servants employed on the Adamson estate, was adopted by Adamson two weeks after his will was written. She will receive the income from a trust fund of $300,000 and half of the residue estate. Her parents are in Japan.

Printer Leaves To Take Over Estate

AMARILLO, Tex., Aug. 14.—It's a long, long way to Tipperary, but when the titles and original estate of the Duke of Wellington awaits one there, the distance is considerably shortened.

So thought James Wellington, wandering printer, who walked into the composing room of the News-Globe here and walked out with a royal title and an estate.

Wellington is the son of Ormsley Augustus Wellington, who chose poverty and American freedom to the teachings of a private tutor in the Castle of Wellington, Ireland. When James visited the office here, he learned his father had died last March at Shamrock, Texas. James Wellington, itinerant printer, had become Lord of Nenagh, County of Tipperary, Iseland.

Lord Wellington immediately set out for Tipperary to take possession of the original estate of the Duke of Wellington, of whom he is a direct descendant.

114,000 CONES FOR TOTS

(International News Service)

BOSTON—$5,700 in ice cream—or 114,000 cones at five cents each—was furnished free to the children of Boston during the official celebration of Fourth of July. This is revealed in the report of Mayor James M. Curley to the city council.

CLAIMS MODEL WORKHOUSE

(International News Service)

WILMINGTON, Del. — Virtually none of the defects in the present penal machinery of the nation complained of in the Wickersham committee's report to President Hoover on prisons, exists in New Castle County workhouse, according to Joseph H. Hamilton, president of the workhouse board of trustees. Hamilton announced that additional improvements are soon to be made in what he terms "a model workhouse." It is proposed to remodel a wing into a modern hospital; to employ a full time physician; a psychiatrist, psychologist, social service worker and chaplain; and to institute a system of classification of prisoners as to mental and physical capacities.

Colorado Theater Is Try-Out House

(International News Service)

CENTRAL CITY, Colo., Aug. 14—Central City's opera house famous theatre of Colorado's early mining days, is to be reconstructed and used as a testing ground for dramatic productions later to be presented in Denver by the civic theater group of that city.

The ancient stone structure located on the main street of what was once Colorado's principal city, has been presented by heirs of Peter McFarlane to Denver University. It is to be completely refitted at the expense of the estate.

The last railroad train into Central City discontinued service more than four years ago. Actors and playgoers who come to Central City to attend the productions will have to depend on automobile service. They will find hotel accommodations in the Teller House, into which U. S. Grant, then President of the United Staes, once walked over a pavement of solid silver.

The present population of Central City is about 500.

Pioneer Builds Lobster Industry

(International News Service)

STONINGTON, Conn., Aug. 14—A fleet of six great motor trucks go down the Boston post road every night with lobsters for the New York market. A fleet of thirty boats bring the lobsters into port here each afternoon.

So a business started in a small way by Nathaniel S. Avery, member of an old Stonington family, just a short time ago has developed into one of the big industries of this ancient seaport village.

Twenty men are employed ashore handling the lobsters, which go alive into the market. Mr. Avery started with one truck and four boats using a picturesque old building on the town warf as headquarters.

BIRDS BUILD NEST IN LIFE PRESERVER

McGREGOR, Ia., Aug. 14.—Deep down in the hollow davit of a life preserver on the ferry boat across the river from here to Prairie du Chien, Wis., a pair of swallows built their nest and reared their brood.

The boat winds back and forth across the river. Sometimes the swallows go in search of food to one bank, sometimes to the other. But when the sqipper, Pilot Traversy, toots his horn for a landing, the swallows wing out over the water as though they had been called, and come to rest boldly on the boat.

Mayan Vase, Of 400 A. D. Era For Twin Launching

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Aug. 14.—Waters from rivers in nine Caribbean countries will stream down the bows of two new steamers in the United Fruit Company's Great White Fleet on August 15th when Mrs. Hoover sponsors the launching of the Segovia and Talamanca at Newport News, Va.

A novel feature of this twin launching is the substitute for a champagne bottle being used in the sponsoring— a Mayan vase of perfect craftsmanship, exhumed from Central America and ascribed by archaeologists as dating back to 400 A. D.

Miniature Mayan vases will be presented to the Latin American diplomats attending the ceremony. On each vase will appear a Mayan symbol corresponding to August 15th, 1931, corredated by Dr. Herbert Spinden of Harvard University, world's leading authority on the calendar of this great aboriginal race.

In honor of the nations which will be served by these two liners—as well as the 115 other vessels of the Great White Fleet—there will be a special decorative scheme composed of the flags of Cuba, Columbia, Guatemala, Honduras, Nicaragua, Costa Rica, Mexico, Panama and Salvador.

When Mrs. Hoover christens the 11,500 ton vessel, it is said American shipbuilding will have achieved a new record—the first time two commercial carriers have ever gone down the ways together. The Talamanca and Segovia are the first two to be completed in the full complement of six streamers now being constructed for the company. They are all to be eighteen knot liners.

Tobacco Industry In Mexico Grows

(International News Service)

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 14.—The tobacco industry of Mexico and its products in 1929 represented an investment of approximately $18,000,000 a survey by the Department of National Statistics reveals.

The report listed 138 cigar and cigarette factories, seventy five of which are located in Mexico City or its immediate vicinity. The investors in the various plants include 151 Mexicans, three Americans, four Frenchmen, thirteen Spaniards, five Englishmen and two Greeks.

The industry employs in its factories only, 4,711 persons. Of that number 2,300 are women. The statistics showed that in addition to the consumption of Mexican-made cigars and cigarettes, there is a heavy annual expendiutre for imported cigars, cigarettes and pipe tobacco.

Two-Year Old Saves Brother From Death

(International News Service)

EAST PEORIA, Ill., Aug. 14.—Although young to be a lifesaver, Donald Mear, two, is credited with having saved his 11 months old brother Billy, from drowning. Walking out into the yard, Donald observed the legs of the little tot protruding out of a tub filled with water. Rushing to the tub, Donald grabbed the younger boy and pulled him from the water. He then screamed for his mother.

Mrs. Mears caught Billy up by his feet, carried him to a neighbor where a physician revived him. The mother's prompt action in allowing the water to run from the child's lungs as she carried it, aided greatly in its recovery, the physician said.

A New Jersey judge has devised a new scientific system for classifying crime. If these criminologists work at it long enough it may be possible some day to tag all criminals simply as good, bad or indifferent.—The New York Sun.

MILLIONS PREFER KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN

MILLIONS of satisfied users have made this famous Kellogg product the largest-selling all-bran cereal in the world. It guarantees relief from both temporary and recurring constipation.

How much better than pills and drugs. For most laxatives have to be taken in constantly increasing doses. Otherwise, they lose their power.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN provides the natural, safe way to protect health. It supplies roughage to sweep poisonous wastes from the system. And it brings iron, which builds up the blood.

Just eat two tablespoonfuls daily. In severe cases, with each meal. Try ALL-BRAN with milk or cream, fruits or honey added. Use it in cooking. Recipes on the red-and-green package. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

VOLANT

CHURCH SERVICES

Presbyterian — Morning worship 9:50 a. m. Rev. Charles M. Rohrbaugh, pastor, Sunday school 10:50 a. m., John B. Shaw, superintendent.

Methodist—No church nor Sunday school.

FRIENDLY FELLOWS CLUB

The Friendly Fellows club will meet on Friday evening, August 14, at the Volant baseball field.

SCHOOL REUNIONS

Big plans are being made for the reunion of the Bunny and Potter Run schools to be held at the Potter Run school house on Monday, September 7, (Labor Day). The Bunny school house which stood at the intersection of the Leesburg and Shaw roads, north of Volant was burned down over sixty years ago. When the school house was rebuilt it was built on the old Potter Run road. Later when the road was changed the school house was moved to the site where it now stands on the road leading from Volant to the Perry Highway. School is no longer held in the Potter Run school house, the children coming into Volant, but the building still stands, and it is at this place the reunion will be held on Labor Day. All pupils, teachers, friends with their families are cordially invited to be present.

NO CHURCH SERVICES

No church services will be held at the M. E. church for two weeks, as the pastor, Rev. H. H. Thompson is enjoying a vacation.

HOW STRUCTURAL MOTION AND FORM OF A STORM WAS DISCOVERED

By Arthur DeV. Carpenter

The human race got along until the year 1747 without knowing that a storm was a moving formation, and the man to make the discovery was none other than Benjamin Franklin. He made the discovery through an astronomical event. His brother in Boston and Benjamin in Philadelphia were to watch a lunar eclipse. Eclipse was observed in Boston: it rained hard in Philadelphia with wind in northeast. Imagine Benjamin's surprise at receiving word from Boston that eclipse observations had been made. Franklin gathered data on that storm and found it had crossed the continent from the southwest. Rain came from Boston direction, but the storm formation had traveled from Cincinnati and farther west.

HER 100TH BIRTHDAY

(International News Service)

OIL CITY, Pa.—When Mrs. Amanda Dickey celebrates her 100th birthday August 25, a public reception in her honor will be held at the First Presbyterian church. She has been a resident of Oil City since 1898 and came here from Milbrook. Despite her advanced years, she has been enjoying good health.

PROFESSORS PERFECT PIANO CAMERA

IOWA CITY, Ia., Aug. 14.—After several years of painstaking research, Joseph H. Tiffin, of the University of Iowa department of speech and Dean Carl E. Seashore, head of the psychology department, has perfected a piano camera.

Every touch of a musician's efforts is recorded by the camera, included a record of the duration, time of incidence and time of reading, and a relative measure of the intensity of each note struck during the playing of a selection.

Correct this sentence: "He spent his life teaching algebra,' said the gossip, "yet he never felt superior to people who knew nothing about it."

Chamber Of Commerce Starts Making Headway With Relief Program

U. S. Organization Already Has More Suggestions Than Government Commission Had After Year's Work, Stewart Finds

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Staff Writer.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—Silas H. Strawn's remark, as president of the United States Chamber of Commerce, that "many of our statesmen love the role of helping the proletariat, and unless we have accurate information and a definite plan, congress will be flooded with all kinds of fool proposals," is fairly representative of the attitude one senses at the commerce chamber's palatial headquarters in Washington.

That is to say, seemingly the chamber is not particularly concerned as to proletarian distress "per se."

What it evidently does fear is that relief measures of a sort which "business" would not like to have adopted will develop formidably if the situation is neglected on into a third winter.

* * *

Why the average chamber of commerce should be so much harder boiled than its individual members (who doubtless are personally as kindly and charitable as any other class of folk) and why a federation of chambers, such as the United States chamber, should be still harder boiled than its constituent chambers is a question I never have heard answered.

It is a well recognized fact, nevertheless.

Senator Couzens of Michigan dwelt on it with great emphasis in a letter he wrote last spring to the United States chamber's directors, at a session they had invited him to attend at Atlantic City.

* * *

In this letter (which he sent instead of accepting the directors' invitation to be present at the Atlantic City gathering) the Wolverine solon warned his fellow multi-millionaires of the certainty of legislative interference in the unemployment crisis unless they themselves hit on some means of ending it right speedily.

The assembled magnates took no immediate notice of the Detroiter's epistle.

Yet in reality it appears to have worried them, for finally, though pretty late in the season, the United States chamber has begun to bestir itself in a fashion which, coupled with President Strawn's reference to the congressional peril, hints decidedly at Senator Couzens' threat as at least partly responsible for its activity.

* * *

It is fair to state that the commerce chamber, having actually started to do something, goes at it in a businesslike way, in marked contrast to the floundering of the government's various agencies thus far.

Obviously it will experience enormous difficulty in dealing with the coming winter's conditions.

A hurried survey is being taken, to be sure, but not even the most optimistic person dares to hope that the next few months will be blundered through except by emergency methods, resorted to haphazard, as exigency after exigency arises—with a clamorous congress in the background and all sorts of penalties to be paid for leadership's delay in asserting itself.

Assuming that the country does survive the winter, however, the chamber's so-called "long-range" plans give promise of future improvements of a permanent character.

* * *

Of all things, the commerce chamber's membership clearly is most anxious to avoid the "dole"; for "When we accept that," to quote President Strawn, "in my opinion we have hit the toboggan as a nation."

And, mighty belatedly, realization that the dole idea is unemployment's offspring seems to have dawned upon the chamber's management—a realization which unquestionably has given a great impetus to the organization's campaign for employment stabilization.

It is a practical body, too, when once it sets itself into motion.

Already, with its effort but a week or two launched, members of its research staff are advancing constructive suggestions that President Hoover's hard times commission has toiled for a year without evolving.

* * *

Illustratively, the point is made at commerce chamber headquarters that jobs with the country's public utilities are fairly dependable, generally speaking—which is true, when one investigates; for example, our traction companies are not throwing many men out of work, though they are not overly prosperous in these days of increasing automotive transportation.

The utility people have not claimed any especial credit; they simply have stabilized, as if unconscious that they were doing so.

Now, I never happen to have heard this mentioned in the utilities' favor, or thought anything about it, until it was pointed out to me by a commerce chamber investigator who is making an intensive study of the utilities' system, with a view to applying it to other industreis.

Oh, the United States chamber of commerce is conservative all right, but it is efficient, when finally it does undertake a task.

Appeal Is Taken By Mrs. Schlager

Petition for a certiorari to Alderman Richard R. Lewis has been filed at the prothonotary's office in the case of the commonwealth against Elizabeth Schlager. It is claimed that a judgment was obtained against Martin and Elizabeth Schlager in the office of Alderman Hamilton by Hyman Cohen, trading as the New Castle Furniture Company, and execution was issued, directed to John W. Miller, constable. Sale bills were posted by the constable, which it is alleged were torn down by Mrs. Schlager, who was arrested for removing the bills. It is claimed that the arrest was without warrant, but an information was made charging malicious mischief. In her petition Mrs. Shclager claims that the act of May 6th, 1887, does not sustain the charge.

No Bids Received For Pymatuning

Bidders Slow Responding To Call For Prices On Construction Of New Dam

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Aug. 14.—With advertisements for bids on the Pymatuning dam, to be constructed in Crawford county for impounding of waters of the Shenango river, appearing today for the first time, no bids have yet been received by the State Water and Power Resources board for work on the project.

Advertisements for bids will appear again on Aug. 18 and Aug. 24, the board announced here today, and bids on the dam work will be opened in the office of the board September 1.

Officials today said they had no idea how many bids will be submitted.

Branch Library Of East Side To Change Location

East Side Library Will Be At Rose Avenue And East Washington Sept. 1

Headquarters of the East Side branch of the New Castle free public library will be changed from the old Third United Presbyterian church building at 1305 East Washington street to a store-room at the corner of Rose avenue and East Washington street, according to announcement this morning by Miss Alice Sterling, librarian.

The change will be made on September 1. The present library days and hours will remain unchanged. The library on the East Side will be open each Wednesday from 12:30 p. m. to 9:00 p. m. and on Saturdays from 9:00 a. m. to 6:00 p. m.

More room was needed and the new headquarters will answer that need. The new place is larger and has much more shelving room.

Seek Identity Of Man Who Annoys Business Firms

Better Business Bureau Offers Reward For Information On Pest

President Emanuel Shenkan of the Better Business Bureau stated this morning that a reward of $50 will be paid for information which will reveal the identity of the party or parties who has been causing no end of annoyance for local merchants.

The party in question calls up a local merchant and asks him to deliver a certain article to a person who works for another firm. When the article is delivered, it is found that no such order had been placed.

In one week, eight banana splits were ordered from two different drug stores, a cooked meal from a restaurant, a dozen roses from a florist, and other articles.

These have all been delivered to one certain party as far as can be learned. They do not cause him any inconvenience as he has not ordered them and it not out anything, but the merchant with whom the order is placed is the one who loses.

Severe punishment will be meted out to the guilty parties, if they are apprehended, as the Better Business Bureau has taken an active interest in the case.

Hoover Debates Using A Police Escort On Trips

Friends Suggest An Escort On Account Of Two Accidents Recently

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON Aug. 14—Twice on the scene of two serious motor accidents, one involving a machine in his own party, President Hoover is debating the suggestion of his friends that he accept a police escort for his weekly trips to his Blue Ridge mountain camp.

Gov. John Gardner Pollard offered to have Virginian motorcycle policemen escort the President's motorcade to the camp but the President has preferred to travel without this official fanfare.

The capital was alarmed a few weeks ago when newsboys yelled "President's party in serious accident." The papers were circulated at the close of the first shows of the downtown motion picture houses and practically every man and woman in the theatre district bought papers and blocked the sidewalks as they read the published account.

The accident involved the automobile of Frank W. Connor, correspondent for a New York newspaper and one of the press men accompanying the President to his camp. His machine was the last of the motorcade and overturned when passing a bus not far from Alexandria, Va.

Mr. Hoover did not see the accident and first heard about it when he reached the camp. A group of reporters in a limousine that immediately preceded Connor's car, saw the wreck, extricated Connor and his wife, had first-aid administered and saw to their removal to a Washington hospital.

The following day the President instructed his personal physician, Dr. Joel T. Boone, to have Connor admitted to Naval Hospital in Washington for an examination of his leg. Neither he nor his wife was seriously hurt.

Mr. Hoover saw the second accident which occurred two weeks later near Warren, Va. An automobile containing Lieutenant Commander and Mrs. William F. Newton upset when a rear tire exploded as it rounded a curve. The Hoover limousine stopped and Dr. Boone and Theodore Joslin, a White House secretary, were told to take care of Mrs. Newton. Dr. Boone found she had suffered a sprained knee, elbow and back and took her to Warren Hospital. Her husband was not hurt. Joslin accompanied him and the two arrived at camp an hour or so after the party had arrived.

The Lee Highway is not wide and since its improvement the traffic has increased tremendously. Mr. Hoover evidenced his sense of danger on the highway some months ago when he stopped motoring in the Sunday congestion.

Wild Bunny Does Babe Ruth At Baseball Game

". . . And then six or eight kids did a 'Slide, Kelly, Slide', right on top of the poor creature, putting an end to the wild home run around the baseball diamond. It was the hit of the show—absolutely the funniest thing I ever saw!"

Hearing that much of a conversation at breakfast this morning, the writer asked what it was all about. What did the kids jump on, when, where and why?

"Why, they jumped on the rabbit, of course. At Centennial field. Last night. I just laughed and laughed. It was so funny. That poor little scared rabbit hopping from base to base around the field. It was killing."

And finally the writer got the idea. It all happened in the midst of the baseball game at Centennial field last night between the Hollywood Girls and the Scarazzo teams. The game was exciting and the several hundred people surrounding the field were intensely interested in every play.

Then a gasp from a boy, pointing to a wild rabbit which had just made a dramatic entrance on the scene. Trembling with fear, the bunny stood on his hind legs gazing at the crowd. Then in an instant he was off for first base. He stopped and looked for an opening in the crowd. Then on to second base and around the field.

Recovering from their amazement, several of the boys made a flying tackle and as a result one rabbit was down—and out. But the game warden came to the rescue and the rabbit is alive and free to tell the story to his skeptical grandchildren.

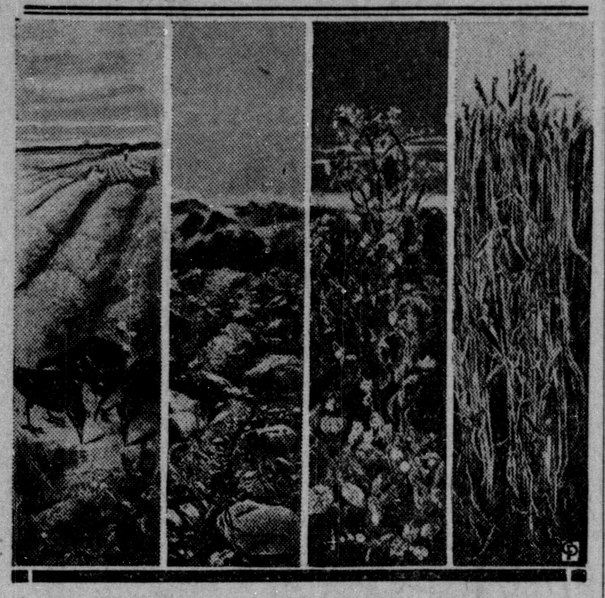
Burdens --- Bearing And Sharing

"Brass Tacks" On The Sunday School Lesson

The Golden Text



Be not deceived: God is not mocked: for whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap.—Galatians 6:7.

By DR. ALVIN E. BELL

Our lesson is taken from one of those practical sections with which Paul closes all of his epistles. His plan was first to set forth Christian doctrine as the seed and root, and then Christian life and duty as the fruit and flower of that teaching.

Paul is the great apostle of faith, Peter of hope and John of love, and yet none has urged charity more insistently than Paul. Regarding himself as the "chief of sinners," he felt and urged sympathy for others in their faults: "Brethren even if a man be overtaken in any trespass, ye who are spiritual, restore such an one in the spirit of gentleness, looking to thyself, lest thou also be tempted." In the state one's innocence is presumed until he is proven guilty, while in the church this order is too often reversed. "There is so much bad in the best of us, and so much good in the worst of us, that it still behooves any of us to find much fault with the rest of us." Considering the beam in our own eye will help us to find charity for the mote in our brother's eye.

Bearers and Sharers

Paul seems to contradict himself when he says in verse 2, "Bear ye one another's burdens, and so fulfill the law of Christ," and in verse 5, "For every man shall bear his own burden." But there is really no contradiction here. For there are burdens and burdens. Some burdens are of such a nature that no man should expect to shift them on to the shoulders of others. Each one of us has responsibilities which are non-transferable. Other burdens, different in nature, may find and should be shared by us in behalf of others for whose shoulders they are too heavy. Through no fault of their own, millions of our neighbors, thrown out of employment, are unable to bear the burdens of life without help from the rest of us. These less fortunate folk have heretofore always borne their own burdens, and would cheerfully do so now if they could. To share their burdens now should be regarded as a blessed privilege rather than a civic duty or a spiritual responsibility.

Teacher and Pupil

Paul next takes up the duty of those who are taught in the word sharing the burdens of their teachers by assuming their support: "Let him that is taught in the word communicate unto him that teacheth in all good things." Let those who believe in and enjoy the benefits of the church support it, rather than to expect the merchants around the public square or on Main street to support it. The church is the community's chief benefactor. Let her never assume the role of beggar!

Sowing and Reaping

There is a natural law in the spiritual universe which decrees that the seed we sow bears fruit "after its kind." We do not sow thistles and reap gladioli. It is the same with "wild oats." Be not deceived; God is not mocked: for whatsoever a man soweth that shall he also reap. For he that soweth unto his own flesh shall of the flesh reap corruption but he that soweth unto the Spirit shall of the Spirit reap everlasting life." Our streets and hospitals are filled with the physical and mental wreckage of those who thought they could mock God and beat this fundamental law of cause and effect. God says it can't be done. Better take his word for it.

(The International Uniform Lesson for August 16 is Gal. 6:1-10, the subject being, "Sowing and Reaping," and the Golden Text, Gal. 6:7.)

MY NEW YORK

BY JAMES ASWELL

Central Press

NEW YORK, Aug. 14—In lower Fifth Avenue, not far from Washington Square, is the old brownstone where Mark Twain lived. It is soothing to walk past there on Summer nights and wonder whether a white-haired gentleman used to sit on that stoop puffing a stogie and pondering on the dark destiny of man. For Mark was a great pessimist, you know, one of the bitterest commentators on the human animal—when he wasn't writing to make money.

"Echo Farm" to me his finest story, was written there. Now the house is divided into small apartments. It is one of the few brownstones surviving in a district of tall towers.

FEW NEW YORKERS KNOW

That the daughters of girls who once wanted to go on the stage now hear the call of the broadcasting studios: and that anyone can get an audition with the larger network simply by applying several weeks in advance.

That the custom of wiring in advance for hotel reservations is dying out—unless the visitor wants a specific room or exposure.

That Jeritza, the prima donna calls her husbands in Vienna so frequently from her suite in the St. Regis Hotel, that the management has had a gold telephone installed as a courtesy.

That, with all the talk about modernism, there is only one movie house in New York showing full length pictures which is modernistically decorated—the Little Carnegie Playhouse, which serves free coffee and offers patrons the use of ping-pong tables.

That Leopold De Pinna, son of the founder of the clothing house of that name, has such a sentiment for the children's sailor suits his father introduced that he runs an ad for them once a year, even though they are pretty much out style—"camp suits" being the thing now.

That New York has a heart where penniless girls are concerned—at the Volunteer's Girl's Club in West 23rd Street, where any girl between 16 and 35, any religion, any nationality, can have a single or a double room with two meals a day free, provided she can show she's a worthy case.

That the exact social center of Manhattan has been computed to be at Park avenue and 68th street.

That, contrary to the ballyhoo about the thousands necessary to get a musical debut it is possible to be in Carnegie Hall for $1,250 exclusive of accompanist's fee: and that Carnegie even when sold out, yields only $5,500 to the artist.

That, despite unemployment talk, there is always a dearth of all-round expert and competent stenographers.

That the picture gallery, excess claim people happy in their home life are the greatest buyers of good works of arts, excepting, of course, the helplessly rich, who buy anyway.

That the first chair of art in America was occupied in 1835, by Samuel F. B. Morse, who invented the telegraph—at New York University College of Fine Arts.

That it is a tradition among the male students of Columbia University never to write to the object of a Summer-school romance.

That New York University uses a U. S. training ship lying in the Hudson for athletic coaching: and that they use airplanes there for geology field trips.

That the most expensive co-operative apartment on upper Fifth Avenue, went for $450,000: and that the largest was bought by John Markell at 1060 Fifth, for $370,000—41 rooms and 17 baths.

That the Hotel Delmonico, one of the swankiest in the world, makes no charge for room service.

Ancient Baptismal Robes Used Again

(International News Service)

CANTON, O., Aug. 14—An ancient set of baptismal robes, which were laid away in an old chest centuries ago when feudal lords ruled the Rhineland from their great stone castles near the end of the medieval period, were used here recently for the baptismal services of little Miss Elizabeth Brahm.

For years the robes lay forgotten in a secret compartment of the chest which continued to be a part of the furnishings at one of the ancient castles. Then the chest was taken away in 1918 and sold to a native of Baderhorn, near Cologne.

The chest, with its remarkable history and the robes, was given to Mr. and Mrs. Paul Brahm of Canton, when they left Germany for the United States three years ago. The chest was presented with the request that the first born of the couple wear the old robes at the baptismal service.

FAILS TO RETURN FROM AUTO TRIP

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Aug. 14.—Officers have been asked to assist in the search for Madeline McDonough, 15, of Collier, who has not returned from a motor ride which began Wednesday afternoon. The girl's parents say that she was last seen in company of Tony Lombardo, 28, and Miss Ellen Lacey, both of Philadelphia, and James Radcliffe, whose address is unknown.

The early bird also gets a $50 suit whose mate is marked down to $19.98 next month.

BUY "BETTER MEAT"-- SATISFACTION TO ALL

It is extremely difficult to please everyone when serving dinner. You, no doubt, are puzzled from time to time in planning your menus and, may we venture to say, the purchase of meat is one of your biggest problems. It is comparatively easy to select fresh vegetables or prepare a dessert but to select a choice cut of meat that will be appreciated by all who gather at the dinner table is another story.

The solution to your problem is easy if you'll visit our market and inspect our meats. We handle only "better meat"—the tasty, delicious meat with the savory flavor. And, too, you'll be surprised at its low cost. We invite comparison in both product and price. Our Saturday specialties are listed below.:

Plan Reunion Of Bunny Hill And Potter Run School

Former Pupils Of Old Volant Institution To Gather On Labor Day

Plans are now well under way for the first big reunion of former students of the old Bunny Hill and Potter Run schools of Washington township, which will be held at the old Potter Run school now abandoned, on Labor Day.

This school was organized in 1857 with Miss Sarah Tebee as the first teacher. Three of the first pupils who ever attended the school still survive and reside in the district. They are N. O. Allen of Volant and Mrs. J. A. McConnell and Miss Hanna R. McCracken of this city.

Miss McCracken, who in addition to attending the old school, also taught there, can remember distinctly many of the incidents of the early school days and has written of many of these incidents for a memory book which is now being compiled.

Among the teachers who still survive is Attorney S. A. McCracken of this city.

The school was first known as the Bunny Hill school, but some years after it was founded, the original Bunny Hill school burned to the ground, and a new structure was erected a short distance away at Potter Run. There was quite an argument over the location of the building, but the Potter Run district was finally selected.

All pupils who at any time ever attended either the two buildings, is invited to attend the reunion and basket picnic which will be held on the old Potter Run school grounds on Labor Day.

Complete Work On Blaine Street

Work was started yesterday morning, on placing the curb on Blaine street, which was recently paved with concrete. As soon as the curb has been put in place and the catch basins completed, the street will be thrown open for traffic. This will probably take place sometime next week.

The street, while but two blocks in length will be a big benefit to North Hill motorists.

AUTO TOURIST AND FAMILY STRANDED

BUTLER, Pa., Aug. 14.—Help was sought here Wednesday night by police for Charles Waaga and his family, stranded on the Kittanning road in their car and trailer after a cross-country tour they said had taken them from Texas to the eastern seaboard.

The broken-down tourist party was discovered by John E. Wolfe, 104 Ninth avenue, who brought Waaga to police headquarters when the Texan said he had no funds and that his car wouldn't run.

Patrolman Frank Austel investigated the case, reporting that Waaga needed enough work to give him money for the trip home to Texas.

Memories Of Famous Race Between Robert E. Lee And Natchez Will Be Revived When Modern Versions Of Old River Steamers Race 1,154 Miles For Koenig Cup

C.N. MICKLER and HIS OUTBOARD MOTORBOAT

(By Central Press)

NEW ORLEANS, La., Aug. 14.—Once again, on August 27, memories of steamboat races of half a century ago will be revived when a score of the modern versions of the old river steamers will stage a 1,154-mile race up the winding and deceitful Mississippi. The course will be from New Orleans to St. Louis, with the Edward C. Koenig cup as the prize.

The race will be over the same course plowed by the famous Robert E. Lee and Natchez when these two mighty river boats battled for supremacy. The former won and set a record of 90 hours and 14 minutes.

Lee Supreme for Years

For many years after none dared dispute the supremacy of the Lee; then several attempts were made but all left the Lee still queen of the mighty murky river. Then in 1929 Dr. Louis LeRoy, a surgeon of Memphis, who had tried to shatter the record previously, accepted a challenge of George Cox of New Orleans to a race up the river for the Koenig cup, which was donated by the St. Louis Yacht Club for the fastest boat time—New Orleans to St. Louis.

Dr. LeRoy, racing an open motor boat—the Bogie—left Cox's boat far behind and shattered the record of the Robert E. Lee, covering the entire distance in 87 hours and 31 minutes.

Since Dr. LeRoy's memorable race two others have challenged the river and won. They are C. N. Mickler of New Orleans and Frederick Smith of Memphis. The former in an outboard motorboat covered the distance in 78 hours and 31 minutes and the latter in a Greyhound made it in 74 hours flat.

Neither received the cup, however. Mickler was not awarded it because he made a major repair on his engine and Smith because he failed to challenge at least 90 days in advance of the race.

Full Moon An Asset

Smith's record is the most outstanding one, even though he did not win the trophy. His time was not only several hours better than the others, but the time he chose for his run was considered the most hazardous because there was no full moon. Most of the races prior to his run had been made during a full moon so as to afford the pilots of the boats every possible bit of light—this because submerged logs had been the downfall of many previous attempts.

This year the New Orleans Motorboat Club, which is sponsoring the races, has challenged the cup so that all entries in the race will have the opportunity of claiming the cup in the event they win, according to P. B. Lusk, rear commodore, in charge.

The feat of racing up the Mississippi may seem a comparatively easy matter from afar, but upon examination it presents problems requiring utmost skill on the part of the pilot and endurance on the part of both the engine and the boat.

There are two major problems that have to be contended with, and which have wrecked the hopes of many aspirants. First, the river itself, which aside from its swift current, is perhaps one of the most dangerous of rivers; second, the motor of the boat, which can stand but a certain amount of steady pounding.

Woman Entrant

Numerous entries in this year's race have been received, including one woman, Miss Irene Freutel of Memphis, Tenn. Other entrants not including Dr. LeRoy and Mickler, who have stated they would enter boats, are Robert Labrano of New Orleans; Charles Schokmiller of St. Louis; L. O. Heard of Baton Rouge; T. Schelhin, mayor of Greenville, Miss.; Bob Neuman of New Orleans, and S. J. Gienelloni of Baton Rouge.

Miss Freutel, however, may not be the only woman in the race, as a special invitation has been sent by the committee to Miss Loretta Turnbull, of California, who has gained wide fame in winning speedboat races.

Rules of the contest specify that any kind of motorboat may be entered with as many pilots as the owner wishes. The only requirement is that the boat use only one power plant, permitting, however, of small necessary repairs.

Refueling points will be at Baton Rouge, La.; Natchez, Vicksburg, Greenville and Rosedale, Miss.; Helena and Cottonwood Point, Ark.; Memphis, Tenn.; Hickman, Ky., and Grand Tower, Mo.

Couzens Outlines Plan For Permanent System Of "Jobless" Insurance

Michigan Senator, Intimately Familiar With Working Class Problems, Thinks Unemployment Protection Policy Essential

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14. — Next winter will be just the same to make another strong bid for unemployment insurance, in Senator James Couzens' opinion.

Senator Couzens recognizes that emergency relief will be needed first, and favors an extra congressional session beginning not later than October, to provide it; but, the present crisis having been met, he considers it essential to lay the foundation of a permanent insurance system for the future.

It is doubtful whether anyone else in today's public life has the Michigan lawmaker's intimate acquaintance with so-called working class problems.

He began poor himself. Later, as is well known, he graduated into the ranks of America's very foremost industrial leaders. Retired from business life and launched on a political career (though heaven forbid that he should be described as a politician), in connection with his then chairmanship of the senate committee on education and labor he conducted, a few years ago, perhaps the most thorough investigation ever made of the already increasingly serious question of unemployment.

* * *

The Wolverine solon was of the very few whom "prosperity" of the mid-1920's did not deceive

What was coming he clearly predicted long ahead of the boom's collapse.

And, "Security of the worker is his job," as he said at the time, "is vital, if the capitalistic system is to endure."

It was his view, too, and still is, that employment can be stabilized. In the course of his investigation, indeed, he saw here and there a concern which had accomplished it, not only to its employes' advantage, but invariably to its own profit also.

* * *

Supplementing the result of his researches during his senatorial labor committee chairmanship, the Detroiter has been devoting the congressional recess to still further studies of unemployment in his home state, and on his return to Washington in the fall will bring with him the tentative draft of an insurance plan for which he gives credit to Eugene Lewis, at the head of Michigan's Morris Plan banks.

This framework of an idea contemplates the creation of an unemployment insurance fund in each state, to be built up by annual accretions equaling 1.75 per cent of the state's industrial payroll, contributed to as follows:

By the state, out of general taxation, 30 per cent.

By employers, 25 per cent.

By workers, 15 per cent.

By the federal government from the higher income tax brackets, 30 per cent.

* * *

The money thus raised, as proposed by the scheme's author, is to be devoted, when not required for unemployment benefits, to the making of loans of approximately the type now handled by Morris Plan banks, its administration being placed in the hands of an organization consisting of a federal commission, at the head of a central stabilization bank in Washington, with a similar stabilization bank in each state, the capital stock to be supplied by the various state treasuries and the stock in the central bank to be held by the state banks.

The initial suggestion is that insurance benefits be fixed at 70 per cent of the monthly wage of the insured.

As outlined in the preliminary draft of the project, an emergency would be declared, putting the system into effect whenever employment in a given state falls below 85 per cent of the preceding three years' average—and declared ended after employment's return to 90 per cent of normal, or better than that.

* * *

Is it not proposed to make contributions to the insurance fund compulsory, either by employers or employes.

Banker Lewis does assume that the workers, whose contributions of only 15 per cent to a fund amounting to but 1.75 per cent of their state-wide aggregate of payrolls, will work out at a very small figure, will avail themselves of its protection with practical unanimity.

That the employers will show a corresponding enthusiasm immediately is not deemed so certain. Nevertheless, the plan's sponsor surmises that concerns which hold aloof from the system will find it difficult to man their plants with a first-class quality of labor, and thus quickly will be forced (though not by legal mandate) into line.

* * *

Senator Couzens does not intend (and perhaps neither does Eugene Lewis) to present the scheme as a fully worked-out or perfected model. The senator does intend to offer it as a basis for discussion, from which he hopes a clean-cut system will develop and be adopted.

Some adverse criticism of it, it is true, already has reached him.

One objection, in particular, which has been raised to it, is that the burden laid upon the employers is, in the critics' judgment, insufficient—this attitude being that any industry which fails to stabilize its production should be substantially penalized for its neglect.

Buys Magazines For Dollar; Finds Deed Signed By Jefferson

Parchment Declared Authentic By Library Authorities

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14—A faded parchment signed by Thomas Jefferson and James Madison deeding 1,000 acres in Ohio to a Revolutionary soldier for 'military services of merit" fell from between the pages of an old magazine and into the hands of a surprised amateur collector here today.

The land grant was dated April 25, 1803 and was declared authentic by Congressional Library authorities Further investigation will be required to locate the 1,000 acres described in the ancient document but the area was fixed tentatively as lying between the Scioto and Little Miami Rivers in what was once the Virginia military tract, now Ohio.

Poking around in the dust of an auctioneer's shop N. N. Wallack spied a book printed in Calcutta, which he decided to buy. The auctioneer "threw in" an assortment of old magazines and Wallack paid $1 for the lot.

While leafing through some of the magazines before leaving the shop the yellowed parchment fell from the pages of a geographical publication. It was signed by Jefferson as president and Madison, as secretary of state.

The land grant was made to "Capt. Larkin Smith" because of meritorious services in the Revolutionary War. Wallack is said to have been offered several hundred dollars for the parchment within an hours after its discovery.

LOOKING BACK

IN NEW CASTLE

Almira Home for Aged Women is one of the finest institutions of its kind in Pennsylvania and in fact in the entire country. It was organized in August, 1893. The need of such an institution had long been felt and the move was welcomed by all. The first definite step was taken when Mrs. Jennie Gilliland, Mrs. Henrietta E. Butler and Mrs. Samuel Gibson requested Captain M. S. Marquis to give them an abandoned building on Butler avenue to be fitted as a home for an aged woman. The request was granted but the building was never used; instead the small sum of money contributed for the purpose became the nucleus of the fund, which made the present splendid institution possible. At that time the work was entirely in the hands of Mrs. Butler and Mrs. Gibson, who spent the winter of 1892-93 in an almost continuous canvass for funds. Finally they aroused sufficient interest to justify them issuing a call for a public meeting of citizens to be held in the Y. W. C. A. chapel Many ladies attended and Mrs. D. S. Morris was selected as chairman and Miss Irene Maitland secretary of the meeting. The object of the meeting was stated by Mrs. Butler. At a meeting in August, 1893, Mrs. Butler presented a draft of a charter and the organization was perfected. The officers selected were: Mrs. Henrietta E. Butler, president; Mrs. E. F. Palmer, vice-president; Miss Margaret Young, secretary, and Mrs. Samuel Gibson, treasurer. The present name was adopted in honor of Mrs. Almira Martin, who was the first to suggest the institution. The following board of directors were elected: Mrs. O. N. Swisher, Mrs. T. J. Blackwood, Mrs. Nellie Dean, Miss Irene Maitland, Mrs. Samuel Gibson, Mrs. Frank Felton, Mrs. John Blevins, Mrs. Frank Davidson and Mrs. H. E. Butler. Mrs. Butler soon afterward resigned as president and was succeeded by Mrs. D. S. Morris. The home is controlled by the Almira Home association, a corporation which was chartered by the Lawrence county court in October, 1894. The management is vested in a board of trustees elected annually from Lawrence, Mercer, Butler, Beaver and Venango counties. The present substantial building was made possible through legacies of Mrs. Elizabeth Hardaker Bolton and Miss Sadie Dunlap. It was completed in June, 1907.

Cop Finds Popcorn Soothes Youngsters

KANSAS CITY, Aug. 14—When in doubt try pop corn—that's the principle with which Sergt. L. M. Bigus of the park police department dries many youthful tears.

Indigestion forbids Sergeant Bigus partaking of the confection. Nevertheless he buys from two to four sacks every night there is a band concert in his park. It's for the lost youngsters he explains.

When he sees an unattached child wandering through the crowd, the sergeant takes charge and quietly begins looking for the parents. Quietly, that is, until the child realizes he is lost.

Then to the pop corn stand and usually peace prevails again until Johnny or Mary is safely under the proper escort.

GOLF AS A MIND CURE
(International News Service)

HARTFORD, Conn.—Hartford Retreat, hospital for mental cases, has installed a nine-hole golf course on its grounds. Golf, the staff of physicians at the hospital say, is a certain treatment for mental and nervous cases, and the Retreat is the first institution to recognize the fact. It is also the oldest hospital of the sort in the country.

Resume Fighting In Cuban Revolt; Many Are Killed

Rebels And Government Forces Continue Sharp Fighting In Provinces

SIX REBELS ARE REPORTED SLAIN

Ambulances Bring Wounded And Dead From Interior Into Havana All Day Long

By DAVID P. SENTNER
International News Service Staff Correspondent

HAVANA, Aug. 14.—Severe fighting between rebels and President Machado's loyal troops was reported from many places in the Island Republic today as the insurrection spread to Oriente, up to now the only quiet province since the beginning of General Marion Menocal's uprising.

Oriente rebels, possibly personally directed by Menocal, fought government forces in sudden attacks at Santiago, Victoria De Las Tunas and four other points.

The fighting was of the usual Cuban variety—shooting from ambush, or sudden sorties from inaccessible fastnesses of the tropical country-side.

Six Rebels Slain.

Six rebels, one of them Rene Alvarez, son of Senator Aurelio Alvarez, were slain in a fight at Contramaestre, Camaguey, but the hottest battles took place in Pinar Del Rio, the island's most westerly province, where some reports said that General Menocal was basing his operations. Three loyal troops used machine guns and areoplanes, but the number of casualties were not reported.

Ambulances bringing wounded from the interior sped in and out of Havana today, while soldiers marched to unannounced destinations, another troop train loaded with infantry went to join President Machada at Santa Clara, where it was reported loyal troops were being concentrated.

With Machado at Santa Clara was Major August Yorke, the picturesque Cubanized American uncle of Sergeant Alvin Yorke, world war hero. He is one of the president's three aides de camp.

Milwaukee Woman Is Electrocuted; Blame Dry Agents

Claim Agents Left Extension Light Burning—Woman Is Electrocuted

FEDERAL PROBE BEING PLANNED

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—An investigation into the fatal electrocution of Mrs. Helen Vasilzevic in her home in Milwaukee following a prohibition raid by federal officers was ordered today by Prohibition Director Amos W. W. Woodcock.

No report has been received of the fatality, but Woodcock acted on press dispatches.

"It is the policy of this department to carefully investigate all cases where fatalities occur in the enforcement of prohibition," said Woodcock. "In this case it is not clear that the agents were to blame, but we will investigate just the same."

The investigation will be conducted through the office of Administrator J. F. H. Herbert at Chicago.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Aug. 14.—Coroner Henry Grundman indicated today that federal prohibition agents would be questioned at an inquest into the death of Mrs. Helen Vasilzevic, 39, who was electrocuted in a deep pool of wine dumped in the basement of her home by raiding federal agents.

An investigation disclosed that Mrs. Vasilzevic was fatally burned by the electric current from an extension light in the basement presumably left burning by the raiders when she stepped in the pool of wine.

Clothes Dampened.

The woman's clothes had become dampened by the wine while cleaning up the basement after the agents had confiscated three 50 gallon barrels of wine stored in the basement.

The liquid was poured out onto the floor by the federal agents although the basement was not equipped with the usual drain outlets, the coroner found.

As the woman disconnected the light 110 volts, aided by the excellent ground created by the damp floor, passed through her body and she fell in the wine. Her six year old son, Nick, found the body an hour after the raiders departed. Mrs. Vasilzevic was hurried to an emergency hospital, but she was dead on arrival.

CROSS-EYED CONFESSIONS

How I Found My Tattooed Son

A Mother's Story Of Her Search For The Child She Initiated As A Baby So His Father Wouldn't Take Him (But Did) And The Surprising Manner In Which He Finally Was Discovered

BY JOHN P. MEDBURY

I am a woman 52 years old and am eager to tell this most unusual story while my heart is overflowing with happiness. I was married at a tender age to a man I didn't love, in order to protect the mortgage on my mother's house.

I won't go into details of the wedding, as it was one of the ordinary kind, with a ring and minister, etc. My husband was very good to me, but for two years I hardly spoke to him. It was during this time that our first baby boy was born, a son.

The boy was the image of my husband, but in spite of this I liked little Edward very much. (We named him Edward in honor of my uncle, Carl.)

I was so afraid that my husband might kidnap the baby and never let me see him again that I took him to a tatto artist and had my initials (E. V. M.) tattooed on his wrist in large red letters.

Husband Foiled.

When Arnold (my husband) saw what I had done, he was furious and tried to have the tattooing taken off, but without success. When I realized that he had failed in removing the letters I was overjoyed, as I knew that they would then remain on his wrist for life.

Two weeks later I woke up one night to discover that little Edward was gone, and so was my husband. I searched up and downstairs but couldn't find them. I notified the police and they started a country-wide hunt, but with no results.

As my husband was now gone, so were my means of livelihood, and I knew that I would have to get out and shift for myself.

I didn't miss Arnold, but I did want my baby. I had had him for nearly a year and had gotten used to him. It was my first child and I hated to lose track of him.

I looked in all the orphan asylums but found no trace of any child with the letters E. V. M. tattooed on his wrist. I did, however, locate one little girl with the word "Amy" tattooed on her shoulder, but I was pretty sure it wasn't my baby.

Quite a Difference!

My baby had only initials, and they were tattooed on the wrist and not on the shoulder. Another thing that made me quite sure that it wasn't my child, was that my baby was a boy and this one was a girl.

I thanked the orphange very much and told them that if I did find that it was my child I would return for it, and gave them my name and address to show my good faith.

I won't bore you with events of the next 25 years except to say that no matter how hard I searched I never was able to find a single trace of little Edward. Of course he was old enough to write me now, but he probably didn't know my real name, as my husband had no doubt given him a fictitious one.

Three weeks ago, finding myself out of a job again, I began looking for work as an elevator operator, the only kind of work that I really knew and cared for. But office buildings and stores weren't taking on any more lady elevator operators; in fact, all lines of business were now hiring men instead of women.

A Scheme!

I hit upon an idea!—I would dress myself up in masuline attire and hunt for work as a MAN. I bought an outfit and if I do say so myself, I made a pretty good looking man.

I still had a lot of difficulty in securing employment, when, one morning at the breakfast table I was reading the classified section of the newspaper and noticed that some large construction company was advertising for laborers. It was the pay that attracted me; $8 a day.

I went out to the camp, which was situated on the edge of town, and asked for the foreman. My disguise must have been perfect, as none of the men treated me as anything but a man, and I never heard such language since I left our sewing club, back in Kalamazoo.

Pretty soon the foreman came over and asked me what I wanted. I don't like his tone of voice, and told him so. I wasn't going to let these gorillas get away with anything just because I was a woman.

"Listen, Buddy," he said, "one more crack out of you and I'll punch you in the nose." I was no coward, and knew a little about using my fists, for at home I often had to help my mother fight my father.

Weeping—From Joy!

I started to make a pass at this foreman, but he beat me to it and hit me right between the eyes. I sank to the ground and commenced to cry, but I wasn't crying from the hurt of the blow. I was weeping from joy.

Just as his fist reached my eye I could see the letters E. V. M. tattooed on his wrist, and I knew that I had found my long lost baby. He kept on hitting me, but as soon as he stopped, I told him that I was his mother.

He was surprised, but overjoyed; as he had been looking for me, too. It's wonderful for a mother to find her baby after all these years, and I'll never have to worry again. My son is a marvelous man, and the first thing he did was to call his assistant over and tell him to give me a job right away driving a gravel truck. But the best part of it is that I'm to receive nine dollars a day instead of eight.

MECHANICALLY SPEAKING

"Well, uncle, what do you think of her?" asked the young man who had introduced the old garage keeper to his charming but loquacious inamorata.

"She has nice head lamps and a handsome chassis; I like her color scheme; she's lively without being too fast, but, lor', laddie, her silencer is totally inadequate." — Boston Transcript.

Just think of it. In a little over two months the world series will be on and everybody will be getting ready for the 1932 campaign. What a life.

Woman Kidnapped By Gypsies Will See Family Again

Miss Mary R. Hubler, 38, Was Kidnapped At Age Of Five From Pennsylvania Home

(International News Service)

LYNCHBURG, Va., Aug. 14.—Kidnapped by gypsies 33 years ago, Miss Mary R. Hubler, a resident here for the past 20 years was enroute to her old home in Pottsville, Pa., today, to visit brothers and sisters, who were located through the efforts of the Rev. M. R. Harvey, of Cheeryville, N. C., a traveling evangelist.

Miss Hubler had been known in this community as Annie Morris, the name was given her by the gypsies. She was five years old when kidnapped and did not succeed in escaping until seven years later.

Without friends or funds Miss Hubler kept her story secret until a few years ago when she confided to the minister at Revival service here. He communicated with the postol authorities in Philadeljhia and succeeded in locating Miss Huber's family.

Her parents had died, but a letter sent her told of her long lost brothers and sisters.

no carpet and then there was the sound of breaking glass. He got up and saw a blaze in the Pagley home, both in the cellar and upstairs. Thinking that Harry Pagley might be hurt, he went out called the neighbors and they broke into the place and put out the fire in about fifteen or twenty minutes. They had used a garden hose, he stated.

After the fire was out, they found the dead man seated on the davenport in the parlor. He stated that the house had three rooms downstairs and two upstairs and that the fire had burned the paper off the walls and scorched the curtains and woodwork. They had put out the fire in several places, he stated, but most of it was in the landing of the stairway leading upstairs.

Find Money

He told of Harry Pagley residing there and Dominick Pagley being the owner and of the fact that the neighbors had the fire out when the city fire department arrived. He also told of the bundle found in the front room or parlor, near the body of the dead man and in which there were shirts, vest, overcoat and other clothing, also a fountain pen and a chain. He had seen a dime that was found and had been told that $22.22 had been found scattered about the room near the body of the man.

The body had been discovered by Fred Koch and himself, Mr. Lang stated and the davenport had not been burned. His wife and daughter had thought they had seen Harry Pagley around about eleven o'clock in the morning. At this point Harry Pagley exclaimed out and insisted that he had left home at seven o'clock Wednesday morning).

Mr. Lang stated that Harry Pagley was always home when he was and apparently stayed home every night as far as he knew. He stated that the clothing was all burned off the body off the man found in the place and that all had taken the body for that of Harry Pagley. The noise that awakened he and his wife had sounded like a man running downstairs. He told of the bundle found in the dining room and the fact that it contained two butcher knives in addition to the clothing.

Johnston Heard

George F. Johnston, another neighbor, stated that he was awakened about 2 o'clock Thursday morning by Lang yelling fire. He resided twenty feet to the south and above Lang, two doors from the scene of the fire, he stated. He dressed and rushed to the assistance of Lang. They kicked in the back door and they put out the fire in the cellarway, the northwest corner of the dining room and the stairway.

He stated that there was rubber cement over the floors of rooms upstairs, on the stairway and in the dining room. He told of the finding of three empty cans that had been filled with the rubber cement, also one nearly full and one full one containing about a gallon that was taken away and a small bottle of thinner. It smelled like naptha, he stated. He stated that he had called the city fire department after he and the others had put out the fire. When they arrived on the scene, the smoke was pouring out of the dining room and stairway. The body, he stated was found about 2:25 a. m. in the front room. There had been no smoke or fire there. It was about the center of the davenport in sort of a fallen, yet sitting position. The davenport was not burned. The wallpaper in the dining room and stairways were burned. He stated that Sheriff Johnston had secured the cans found in the place. He stated also that the bundle of clothing was found at the foot of the davenport and was tied with a rope. He also told of the finding of an electric iron on the floor of the dining room with matches under and about it, all of which matches had been burned.

Fire Chief Called

Charles Lynn, City Fire Chief, told of getting a call about 2:15 a. m. at his home in which Captain Ralph Craig, who was in charge, told of the call for assistance in the township north of the city and was given permission to go. The chief followed the truck out.

On his arrival, he found the B Service Truck in front of the house and Captain Craig and Fireman Byron Zeitler in the front room of the place. When he asked what the trouble was, they had shown him the body of the burned man, which had been covered with a sheet. He could see that the man was dead and had been terribly burned. He told of the fire being out then and of the damage done by the fire to the wallpaper, woodwork, blinds of part of the house. The fire started in the dining room according to the chief and the blast must have been terrific, he stated because the front window in the parlor had been blown out on the porch and the fire had been quite intense especially about the entrance to the stairway, as could be seen by the deeply charred condition of the woodwork there.

Rubber cement he said had been used and was highly inflammable. The material used to cut or thin it had also been used and it was still more inflammable than the cement and more explosive than gasoline.

He had found an electric iron attached to one of the outlets of the light fixture in the center of the ceiling of the dining room with the current on and it was "froze" to the floor when he attempted to lift it. It was so hot when he did get it up that he could hardly touch it. He told of finding evidence of the cement having been poured all about the dining room, the stairway and upstairs in the draws of the furniture.

The chief stated that the heated iron would have been sufficient to cause the explosion a few minutes after it was turned on. He told of matches being found about the iron and around the table in the dining room, of seeing a bundle of clothing found in the parlor of the home and the finding of the burned cap of the man. He stated that there was no question of the explosion and fire being of incendiary origin and due to the gas that arose from the cement and the liquid used in thinning it and that the man that was burned was caught upstairs by the premature explosion due to the heated iron, which he had not counted on evidently.

Captain Craig

Captain Ralph Craig told of getting the call and getting permission to make the run and finding Lang and Johnston there on their arrival and looking through the window and seeing the dead man. Lang had crawled through the broken front window and unlocked the front door and let them in. He opened the bundle of clothing and told of its contents including the butcher knives which were in the center of the bundle.

Harry Pagley stated that the house had formerly belonged to his brother Louis Pagley but now belonged to his nephew Dominick Pagley and that he had been living in it for the past five or six months. He had been there alone for about a month, since his brother had gone to Europe. He was not working now, he said and was spending most of the time there, day and night. He stated he was not there on Wednesday night or Thursday morning, having left 5 minutes to seven o'clock Wednesday morning and that he did not know anything about the explosion, fire or death of the man until Thursday morning at eight o'clock.

He knew of no cans of rubber cement at the house. There were some cans in the cellar he stated but they were probably empty. He had gone to the bazaar at St. Vitus church, early Wednesday evening, he stated, then to James Petrucci's place and finally to Felix Pagley's home where he had spent the night. The clothing in the bundle were his, he stated. Domenick had told him of the fire, etc., when he arrived at the former's shoe shop on Mill street about 8 a. m. Thursday.

He valued the house at about $4,000 and the contents at $1,500. He did not know of any insurance nor did not know or ever see the dead man, he stated. He had worked in Rochester a year and a half ago but had never met Spagnola.

Dominick Pagley

Dominick Pagley, owner of the property, stated that he had resided there at one time but that he now resided at 202 Montgomery avenue. He valued the property at $3,000 without improvements that had been made, placing the present value at about $3,500. The furniture he valued at $1,000. There was insurance, he stated, that on the house being in favor of a client of Attorney A. M. Shumaker, as protection for mortgage on property. He stated that there was no rubber cement in the house that he knew of and that he purchased a lot of it in his business but that he had not purchased any for at least two weeks and possibly longer. He could not remember of where he made the last purchase. He named several firms from whom he purchased this material. He did not know Spagnola, he said, but did name several people he knew in Rochester. He admitted the identification of the body as that of his uncle at first but stated that was what everybody thought.

Mrs. Elizabeth Spagnola, wife of the dead man, told of residing in Rochester in two different places and previously in McKees Rocks and Moon Run. She had been married ten years, she said and they had three children. She knew no body here, nor had she been here before and her husband knew no one here that she knew of. The body of the dead man was that of her husband, she stated positively, because of his face, the ring on his hand, which had been the gift of a friend and a watch.

Her husband had taken her and the children Wednesday about noon to Beaver Falls and told her he was going to Pittsburgh to look up a salesman job in that place, which had been offered a relative. He had been employed for the past year in the Viviani Store, North Rochester, until it went under three weeks ago. She could not explain the money found when his body was discovered. He had no insurance, she stated. She named some of his associates and stated that he had spent most of his time at home and in his garden.

Sheriff Frank Johnston was the final witness and told of going to the Pagley house and gathering up cans, etc., and other articles of evidence. He told of getting one can about two-thirds full of rubber cement, in the weeds near the house, where he had been told that it had been thrown. He had some boys hunt for and get it.

At the conclusion of the testimony Mrs. Spagnola fainted and a doctor had to be called and give her needed assistance. She finally came to. George F. Johnston was called again just before the case went to the jury and testified that Dominick Pagley had been seen throwing the partially empty can, which the sheriff located in the grass, out into the grass.

Will Observe Anniversary Of Lincoln School

Movement Under Way To Observe The Fiftieth Anniversary Opening School

Plans are maturing for the proper observance of the fiftieth anniversary of the opening of Lincoln school, Long avenue, as a part of the public school system of this city.

It will be fifty years with the reopening of the school next month since the school was opened and many of those who attended school there in the eighties and nineties feel that the anniversary should not be overlooked and for that reason a meeting of all former students of Lincoln school prior to 1900 has been called for eight o'clock Tuesday evening in the city council chamber.

At that time, plans will be made for some formal program in celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of the opening of Lincoln school will be made.

Valley Natators Defeat Ellwood

Local Team Minus Speed Team Battles Valiantly But Loses

ELLWOOD CITY, Aug. 14.—Aliquippa with a well balanced swimming team easily copped a dual meet with VanGorder's swimmers here last night, score 49 to 12½. The locals were minus the services of their regular speed swimmers six, in number who were attending a picnic, thus leaving Ellwood's six remaining swimmers opposed to 17 from Aliquippa who practically had a fresh man for every event. The locals were compelled to enter all.

The visitors are reputed to have a team that is strong in the swimming events which they revealed last night. Campbell of Aliquippa copped first honors in the fancy diving contest, with J. Wilson and Hampton of Ellwood City placing second and third respectively. Fitzgerald showed up well for the VanGorder's team in the swimming events getting a second and third. Robuck and Dudick were the other scorers in the swimming events.

100 yard relay: Won by Aliquippa (Paulsey, Pollard, Walker, Smith)

25 yard dash: Pollard, Lockhart, Ghinda, all Aliquippa.

25 yard Breast stroke: Fusco, Lockhart, Masich, all Aliquippa.

25 yard Free style: Paulsey, Aliquippa, Smith, Aliquippa, Fitzgerald, Ellwood.

50 yard Free style: Paulsey, Aliquippa, Fitzgerald, Ellwood, Bachelor Aliquippa.

Rotarians Meet With Girl Scouts

ELLWOOD CITY, Aug. 14.—The members of the local Rotary club held their regular meeting at the local Girl Scout cabin in Wurtemburg last evening.

The club was served a delightful dinner party by the scouts of the Bob-O-Link troop in charge of Mrs. W. H. Shields.

After the dinner the members of the troop put on a very nice program showing how the different girls of the troop are taken into the organization. The program was very interesting and it is certain that the girls sure do know how to cook, according to the members of the Rotary who were present at last evening's meal.

PLAN CORN ROAST

ELLWOOD CITY, Aug. 14.—The members of the J. A. P. club met last evening at the home of Mrs. Carl Sneed on the New Brighton road. There was one special guest present, Mrs. Cable of this city. The club planned a "weinie and corn" roast to be held next Thursday, evening at 7 o'clock. The husbands and the friends of the club members are invited. They will meet at the Jack Kimple residence on the Wurtemburg road. All the plans and arrangements for the picnic were made by Mrs. Dwight Lloyd and Mrs. Harry Bicket. At the close of the meeting a very delectable luncheon was served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. Harvey Hartzell.

The next meeting of the club will be held at the home of Mrs. Kimple the time to be announced later.

CHURCH PICNIC

ELLWOOD CITY, Aug. 14.—The annual picnic of the Wurtemburg M. E. church will be held Saturday at Etna Springs park. Those attending are asked to furnish their own eating utensils and cups. Those who have no cars and no other way of getting to the picnic are asked to notify W. Percy Wright or H. J. Ketterer, who will see that they are taken care of. The sports committee has planned a mushball game to be held between the boys and the men of the church and it is thought that the boys will win in view of the fact that they were defeated last year by the men by a very close score.

REID SERVICES

ELLWOOD CITY, Aug. 14.—The funeral services for James Reid of 511 Wayne avenue, who died at his home Wednesday night at 12 o'clock will be held Monday morning at 9:30 from the St. Agatha Roman Catholic church and burial will be made in St. Agatha's cemetery. Reid had been bedridden for several months. He leaves besides his widow six children, three daughters, Mary, Rose and Margaret, and three sons, William, Gerald and James.

ENJOY SUPPER

DEFEAT NEW CASTLE

ELLWOOD CITY, Aug. 14.—The Northside volley ball playground champions took sweet revenge from the arch rivals, New Castle Thursday afternoon at the latter's courts.

The locals won two games out of three. Both teams have won one contest up to date. The third game to be played soon will decide the issue.

MOTOR TO EMLENTON

ELLWOOD CITY, Aug. 14—Squire and Mrs. T. A. Gartley and family motored to Emlenton last evening to attend a camp meeting held by the Church of God

Artillerymen To Leave For Tobyhanna

ELLWOOD CITY, Aug. 14.—The Ellwood City 107th field artillery will leave 43 strong at 3:35 this afternoon for summer encampment at Tobyhanna. They expect to reach their destination at 8 o'clock tomorrow morning.

It will join the other units of the regiment. The unit will leave from the tracks near the armory and not from this city as has been the custom in former years. The commissioned officers will include Capt. W. E. Bower, First Lieut. Fred Hall and Second Lieut. Delmont Holbien. The unit will use other horses at the camp and not its own. They are determined to again cop the regimental cup which they lost last year after holding it for two years.

MISSIONARY SOCIETY

ELLWOOD CITY, Aug. 14.—The Woman's Missionary society of the Bell Memorial church held its regular monthly meeting last night in the church rooms. A short business meeting inaugurated the events of the evening. Routine matters were discussed and transacted at the time. A delightful social period was enjoyed following this.

HOSPITAL NOTES

ELLWOOD CITY, Aug. 14.—Discharged: Mrs. John Nichols, Jr., and baby of Fifth street, Michael Maietta of Spring avenue, Jean Chieze of R. D. 1, John Parker of Border avenue.

PLANT AROUSES INTEREST

The unusual plant on the premises of St. Margaret's church, corner Second and Clayton streets, which was described in this column earlier in the week is atracting much attention and many visitors have come to view it and give it fanciful names.

It has been partially identified as "Love Lies Bleeding" but it will remain for a botanist or florist to dispel all doubt.

Another Record

Another record's been chalked up for the towering Empire State Building, New York. Besides being the world's tallest building, it's the greatest lightning rod in existence. Three times during a severe electrical storm did lightning strike the mooring mast, 1,250 feet above the ground, and envelop it in flames for an instant. This picture illustrates how the building looked when struck.

Car Overturns On West Clayton

Mrs. William H. Shearer of West Clayton street was hurt Wednesday evening when the car in which she and her husband were riding on Clayton street above Sixth street, skidded and overturned. Mrs. Shearer's injuries are not of a serious nature.

Scalding Bladder Passages Checked Or Costs Nothing

Simply because you are middle-aged or older is no reason why you should suffer the tortures of painful, scalding urinations and sleepless nights.

Even if you've tried treatments and medicines without securing relief, you can check the worst pain and discomfort with Wildunger Tee, a simple herb preparation from Germany in which is combined valuable mineral salts from the famous Wildunger Bad. What is more, unless you are positively delighted with the relief you get from Wildunger Tee, return the empty box and get your money back.

A well-known New York doctor while traveling in Germany was so impressed by the results obtained by kidney and bladder sufferers that he brought Wildunger Tee to this country. Now you can get it right here.

You owe it to your loved ones as well as yourself to grow strong as quickly as possible. Wildunger Tee is the first step, and it costs you nothing unless it succeeds. Get it today at

New Service Opening Announced By General Tire Service Store

Many Valuable Gifts Will Be Given Away Saturday, The Opening Day

On Saturday morning, New Castle will witness the opening of the new service department of the General Tire Service on South Jefferson street, just south of the Diamond. No expense has been spared to give the public the most complete service obtainable at moderate prices.

For many years the General Tire Service has been the distributor for General tires, which fact alone speaks for the quality of merchandise sold by them. Now, they have been appointed distributors for Vacuum Oil Co. products, namely: Mobil gas, Mobil Ethyl gas and Mobil Oils.

Mr. Edelstein, manager of General Tire Service, has arranged a treat for every customer and friend who enters his place of business Saturday, the opening day. In addition, many valuable gifts will be given away.

Each customer purchasing 5 gallons of Mobil gas or Mobil Ethyl gas tomorrow, will have an opportunity to secure one of a number of fine gifts to be given away Saturday night. Notification of the awards will be made Monday. These valuable gifts will be displayed Saturday morning in the General Tire Service store windows.

Vulcanizing, and especially the vulcanizing of the largest truck tires, has been a feature of the General Tire Service. They are equipped to handle the largest tires used here.

Hoover Namesake Falls Into News

(International News Service)

HARPER, Kas., Aug. 14—It takes more than a name to bring fame and recognition, even though one has the same name as the president of the United States.

That is the opinion of Herbert Hoover, 14, of this place, who recently broke into print through the fact that he had the same names as the chief executive and had supplemented by falling off a horse and breaking his arm.

When newspaper editors received news from Harper that "Herbert Hoover had fallen off a horse and broken his arm" they looked askance at the story for they had reliable reasons to believe that Herbert Hoover, the president, was safe in the national capitol.

When Mrs. W. E. Doyle of Buffalo, N. Y., filed suit for divorce, she averred that her husband was so stunningly handsome that women constantly annoyed him.

Firemen Delegates Having Good Time

(International News Service)

TARENTUM, Pa., Aug. 14.—Boat races, water-battles and a mummers parade were to feature the program today at the thirty eighth annual convention of the Western Pennsylvania Firemen's Association in progress here.

The New Kensington firemens band will lead the marching column which is scheduled to start at 7:30 tonight and proceed through the main streets of the borough.

Prize awards were announced last night for the companies taking part in the monster parade yesterday afternoon.

Maria Grovania, aged 2, traveling with her parents from Genoa, Italy, to Buenos Aires, was carried overboard by a great wave, but a second wave threw her back on deck and she was saved.

'Alfalfa Bill' Murray Likely To Cut Figure At Democratic Parley

Colorful Oklahoma Governor, Who Is Creating Reputation For Himself, Not Nearly So Reckless As He Appears To Be

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.— Any number of more improbable guesses might be made than that Governor "Alfalfa Bill" Murray of Oklahoma will make quite a respectable presidential showing at the next Democratic convention.

If he comes creditably out of his fight to improve conditions for the "'sooner" state's oil industry, he almost certainly will have its "favorite son" support for the Jeffersonian nomination. Perhaps he will do even better than that; some of the other oil and agricultural states may back him.

For the second place on the ticket his selection is not outside the bounds of a remote possibility—supposing, of course, that all continues to go well with the gubernatorial career he is started on.

* * *

With his ready reliance on the Oklahoma militia and his bold defiance of federal authority (below that of the president or the supreme court of the United States) Bill probably has given an impression of wild western irresponsibility to sedate folk on the hither side of tre Mississippi.

The truth is, however, according to the testimony of several conservative individuals I have met, who also are intimately acquainted with the governor, Bill by no means is as reckless as he appears to be.

Said one of them (he holds a job connected with oil conservation, in a government department in Washington, which is the reason I can't name him, and is as orthodox a civil servant as need be) with whom I conversed recently:

"Murray is an almighty free talker, but he never acts until he's dead sure he can get away with it."

* * *

Indeed, comment at the interior department and at the commerce department's bureau of mines, where the national oil resources are a matter of deep interest to officials, is distinctly friendly to "Alfalfa Bill." Why this is so may be judged from the conclusions of a committee headed by the eminent engineer, Mark L. Requa, which reported in June concerning the western oil situation:

"Existing wells can produce twice as much oil as can be consumed. Drilling has been carried on with total disregard to consuming ability. This has resulted in the accumulation of excessive stocks of crude oil and refined petroleum products. Demoralization has ensued to a point where prices are irrationally low.

"The government is losing large sums of money in taxes. The industry is operating at a loss. Unless corrected this inevitably will detrimentally affect all employes and the public as well."

* * *

Briefly, as explained by bureau of mines experts, pointing to the bituminous area, it is a case of the soft coal situation over again—another rapidly sickening industry.

In fact, it is a worse case than soft coal's, add the experts; for oil wastes faster than coal and there is not nearly so much of it.

"Alfalfa Bill" is trying to head off this disaster, and that element of officialdom which understands the danger commends him for his effort and wishes he could be transferred to the bituminous region when his task in the oil fields is completed—if he succeeds there.

The governor's policy, from all accounts, is warmly approved by the small oil operators, who have been going bankrupt at a great rate, producing at a loss.

His opposition comes from the big companies.

Why?

Why, because the big fellows know they can outlast the little ones, and plan to gobble up all the oil pools and have an ultimate monopoly, answer the experts.

* * *

One wonders why an operator whose oil brings him less than the cost of production does not suspend operations.

For this reason:

Suppose a large subterranean lake of oil, with the land atop of it, owned by a single individual. He drills one well, caps it and lets the oil gush only at his convenience. Okeh.

But suppose a subterranean lake of oil with the land atop of it, owned by a dozen different individuals, each with a well tapping the same lake. Unless all suspend operations, none can do so, or those who continue to operate will presently exhaust the lake; the rest will have had nothing whatever for their drilling.

* * *

Has not this difficulty always existed?

It has, but it was not so serious a difficulty when there was less oil. In the last few years geological knowledge has advanced and much more oil has been discovered. In the same period, means of extracting it have been vastly improved.

Momentarily it is too plentiful, like soft coal, but not so easy as soft coal to leave in the ground, once discovered. Unlike soft coal, however, there do not appear to be sufficient stores of it to last, for practical purposes, indefinitely. There is more than formerly was believed, but geologists still predict the free-flowing supply's exhaustion within a generation.

* * *

"Alfalfa Bill" has bitten off a formidable mouthful.

He has the big oil operators yet to reckon with. What finally will develop from his defiance of the lower federal courts remains to be tested. That he is not on his way to a show-down with the anti-trust law is no certainty.

Nevertheless, he is creating a reputation for himself that promises to make him anything but an insignificant figure at the 1932 Democratic convention.

Gets "Rat Fever" From Mouse Bite

BEAVER DAM, Ohio, Aug. 14.—A mouse bite suffered by Russell Lutterbein, 17, today was reported to have developed into "rat fever"—one of the rare maladies of medical history.

The youth was bitten by the small rodent, which he seized by the tail on his father's farm near here. He developed violent pains about the stomach, at first daily and then recurring several times a day.

At first mystified by the disease, doctors finally diagnosed it as "rat fever," which they believed to be one of the first cases on record in the state. They said the victim will survive but it will take six months before the malady runs its course.

The violant attacks recur only during the day when his fever runs 104. At night the patient rests comfortably, his physicians reported.

Detectives Pass Disguise Tests

PEIPING, Aug. 14.—Two hundred Chinese detectives in Peiping have successfully passed the tests for disguising themselves imposed by the commissioner of safety, General Pao Yu-lin. They dressed as peddlers, watercarriers, peasants, and even as working women. One detective, dressed as a garbage collector, smelled so successfully that he was turned away from police headquarters.

EACH OF US HAS $753.56

NEW YORK, Aug. 14.—More than 13,000,000 Mr. Ordinary Citizens have an average savings account of $753.56 in the mutual savings banks of the United States at the present time, the National Association of Mutual Savings Banks has announced. Altogether they have total deposits of $9,976,967,981.00. This is the largest accumulation of small capital ever held by the mutual institutions in a century of existence and represents the highest average savings achieved in that time, the association reports.

hearth-flavored

BRAUN'S WHEAT KING JUMBO is baked like the old-fashioned hearth breads of long ago.

That's why this old-time shaped loaf has the fine, rich hearth-flavor prized by those who know good bread.

Because it's an old style loaf, oven heat from the sides, bottom, and top penetrates every part during baking.

This gives Wheat King Jumbo fine, even texture, with every morsel baked to the same uniform goodness. Buy a loaf at your grocer's today and treat your family to bread with the real hearth flavor.

Boxers To End Heavy Training

They Want To Be In Good Condition For Monday Night Scraps

DONELLI HOPES TO "KAYO" GRAY

Fistic knights who have been training 10 days for the coming carnival of boxing will end heavy preparatory work after today's workouts for fear they'll receive a gash above an eye or a fractured digit which would keep them from performing up to form when they climb into action Monday night at the Castle bowl.

Twelve battlers are calendared for action. Some of them are from this city, others from Akron and one holds residence in Warren. While Tommy Arnold is scheduled to box Paul Kropic in a four-rounder, considerable interest is evinced in the Bill Donnelli-Homer Gray setto.

Homer has been having things rather easy around here and naturally Bill hopes to knock Homer for a row of numerals. He intends to force the fighting and believes that he will have Gray backing to the ropes before the first round has been fought. They'll weight 163 pounds.

Another clash between big boys will take place when Clyde Merriner of Akron and Schmickey Ambrose of Warren get their instructions, probably from Referee George Chip. They've never met as opponents and do not know anything about the fighting ability of each other.

Young Scotty of Akron will take on rugged Billy Mido at 120, Ray Ritchie will battle Eddie Elridge of Akron and an opponent for Vito Mangine will be selected today as Willie Stribling pulled a tendon, so it is reported, while in training.

Elder Juniors Win From Diamond A. C.

The Elder A. C. Juniors topped the Diamond A. C. 12 to 1, in a game at Castle Field last night. Francis on the hill for the Elder Juniors allowed but three hits with J. McGary having two of them and Henry the other. Paul Griffiths on the knoll for the Diamond A. C. was found for quite a number of hits and gave way to B. McGary, with McCasky finishing the game.

Pitching Helps Macks To Win

Grove, Earnshaw And Walberg Have Won 57 Games So Far

CUCCINELLO IS SLUGGER OF GAME

By COPELAND C. BURG
International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Aug. 14. — Good pitching wins ball games which is the reason the Athletics can't help winning the American League pennant.

Grove has won 23 games for the A's and Walberg and Earnshaw 17 games each. The team has captured 79 encounters all told.

Walberg joined Earnshaw on Thursday as a man of class when he won his seventeenth game from Detroit, 5 to 2, holding the Tigers to four hits. A homer by Simmons helped.

Phils Down Cubs

Phil Collins filled the pitching and hitting roles successfully for the Phillies, who dropped the Chicago Cubs, 4 to 3. He gave the Bruins seven hits and poked a single himself in the seventh to score the winning counter. Buzz Arlett, the former Oaklander, whammed his seventeenth homer and the once great Hack Wilson, pinch-hitting for Malone in the seventh, cracked a four baser. The defeat sent the Cubs into third place, the New York Giants moving into second position again.

A three-foot bunt by Frisch so frightened the Brooklyn Robins they threw away the ball twice in trying to retrieve it and the St. Louis Cardinals scored two runs, finally winning 8 to 5.

The Giants and Pirates again split a double bill. The Bucs outhit the New Yorkers 12 to 11 in the opener and two errors on should-have-been double plays by Hunnefield gave the Pirates four unearned runs. They finnaly took it, 7 to 5. Mitchell was better than French in the tight spots and a homer by Ott gave him a 6 to 1 win in the vesper.

Reds Win Two

Tony Cuccinello, Cincy Red second baseman, beat the Boston Braves twice, 17 to 3 and 4 to 2. In the first game Tony got six hits and he won the finale with a homer in the eighth with three men on.

Bob Burke, the recent no-hit game youngster, was knocked out in the second inning by the Chicago White Sox and three Washington hurlers who followed did not do much better, the Hose rolling it away, 1 to 8.

Tom Jenkins, a pinch hitter, shot a homer with two on base as one of the 15 hits St. Louis' Brownies snatched off Boston Red Sox hurlers to triumph, 9 to 6.

Rain stopped the Yankees-Cleveland tilt in the second inning.

YANKEES WIN PAIR OF GAMES

New Castle Yankees closed the sandlot season with a pair of wins at the expense of the Black Eagles of Youngstown on Thursday on the Morgan field in New Wilmington. The Yanks took the first game by a 5-4 count and in the nightcap nosed out the Eagles by an 8-7 score.

In the first game Jones with a homer and B. Morgan with three hits featured for the Yankees while Young was the best for the Ohioans. In the nightcap B. Morgan and Conrad starred for the winners while Young hit two circuit clouts to feature for the Youngstown team.

The score by innings of both games follows:

First Game

Eagles .. 201 100 000 0—4
Yankees .. 000 000 310 1—5

Batteries: Eagles, George and Holman.. Yankees, G. Ronoc and C. Hanlon.

Second Game

Eagles .. 401 000 020—7

Batteries: Eagles, Black and Holman; Yankees, G. Shats and C. Hanlon.

Saturday evening at 6:30, the strong Aliquippa swimming team, which defeated the Castle Beach team at Aliquippa last Saturday, will appear at Castle Beach in a series of competitive events against the local team.

The locals have been working hard during the past week under the tutelage of Jack Herbert and expect to make a much better showing.

There will be around 20 men and ten women on both teams. No admission will be charged to the events.

Hambletonian Race Is Set For Today

Nothing Can Interfere With Running Of Richest Racing Race Today

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN
International News Service Sports Writer

GOSHEN, N. Y., Aug. 14—After two postponement, indications were that nothing would interfere with the staging this afternoon of the $60,000 Hambletonian stake, the most valuable harness horse event in the world which will decide who is the three year old trotting champion of 1931.

Six horses are entered for the blue ribbon event this afternoon. They are Nedda Guy, the favorite, Keno 2:05, Charlotte Hanover 2:04, Calumet Bush 2:05½, Calumet Belricka 2:05 and Calumet Butler 2:04 1-4. Although the railbirds like Nedda Guy best of all, they agree she will have a hard time defeating Keno, a huge Bay colt owned by John M. Berry, of Rome, Ga., and they also think Charlotte Hanover will be in the fight all the way.

Rain forced the postponement of the Hambletonian on Wednesday, the date for which it originally was scheduled. Yesterday another postponement was announced because the track was in such a soggy condition the owners of the six high-priced extrants did not deem it advisable to race their colts on a slippery course.

Shenango Pottery To Play Leaders

Shenango Pottery-Scarazzo Tilt One Of Best Games On Schedule Saturday

TWO OTHER GAMES CARDED

Fans who pine for exciting baseball games should have their taste apeased on Saturday afternoon at Centennial field when the Scarazzos, who lead the Lawrence County league will oppose the highly touted Shenango Pottery nine in one of the important games of the day. The game will start at 3:00 o'clock.

The standing shows that the Scarazzos are but one game ahead of the Shenango team. The last time these two teams battled the game ended in a deadlock, 5-5. From then on both teams have been playing heads up baseball to remain in the fight for the second half race. The Shenango Pottery team needs tomorrow's game to be tied for first place honors. A win for the Scarazzos will heighthen their chance of winning the title considerably.

Carm Sacco, manager of the Pottery nine did not want to disclose the name of his hurler for Saturday's game. However, he did make the statement that he will present his strongest combination in the hope of pinning a loss on the necks of the Scarazzos.

Al Scarazzo of the league leaders plans to use Rodenbaugh, Shields or Coen against the Shenango team. One of the best contests of the season is anticipated when both teams take the field for this important setto.

Wampum-Bessemer

While the Shenango team is entertaining the leaders, Wampum will play at Bessemer in another fast game. Wampum has shown good form during the second half. Wampum is in third place and hopes to move up by winning over Bessemer.

North Highland hopes to take the measure of Hillsville when it plays at Hillsville on Saturday afternoon.

The Brent-Universal Sanitary game was carded for Saturday but is being played tonight. West Pittsburg plays golf.

Games Tonight

Brent at Universal Sanitary.
Others not scheduled.

Games Saturday

Scarazzos at Shenango Pottery, Centennial field.
North Highland at Hillsville.
Wampum at Bessemer.
West Pittsburg, idle.

GORDON A. C. LOSES

The Gordon A. C. lost to the Marcellas 7 to 6 in a mushball game at the Lehigh field last night. Llewellyn and Campoli were the opposing pitchers. Nobile hit a home run.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS' LAND

Jackie Rodgers captured only one of 10 rounds last night when he fought Mose Butch at Pittsburgh, Mose won eight and the other was even. Jackie was the favorite before the bell and a big crowd witnessed the fight.

Tony Piet, recruit infielder farmed out to the Wichita club before the opening of the season has been recalled and will report to the Pirates when they play the Phillies in Quakertown Saturday.

Castle Beach is getting ready to send its swimming team against Aliquippa a second time. Recently the Castleites took a lacing at Aliquippa. They will try for victory one week from tomorrow night here.

Harry Lauder, by Count Daschkoff owned and driven by George Hunter, Canfield, broke the Ford City track record, pacing the mile in 2:08¾, Thursday.

Tigers Club Will Picnic Sunday At Etna Springs Park

Mushball Game Between Marcellas And Tigers Will Be Big Feature

Committees in charge of the various activities connected with the annual picnic of the Tigers Club for its members and their families, have been working hard to have completed their arrangements in such a manner that the event Sunday at Etna Springs Park on the Slippery Rock promises to be the biggest and best of these events ever held by the organization, it was announced today by J. V. Bullano, general chairman.

Weather permitting it will be a most enjoyable occasion for all. The program of sports is one of the finest possible to arrange and there will be excellent prizes awarded the winners. The prizes have been donated for the occasion by merchants of the city.

Transportation will be furnished all members and their families and the automobile and busses will leave the Tigers Club on South Mill street at 10 a. m. Sunday morning.

The feature of the day will be the mushball contest between the Marcellas and the Tiger Club team. The Marcellas are leading in the City Class B. league and are among the best mushball players in the city. The Tigers hope to beat them. The Tigers team will be made up of all former I. A. A. Stars and will include "Bill' Chill, "Luby" Richards, Frank Colo, Mike Ross, Clem General, "Dutch" Ross, Carl 'Buffalo" Cialella, Frankie Ross, Charles "Nig" George, Sam Tomaselli and others.

The program of the day follows:—11 a. m. Horseshoe pitching contest; 12 noon, picnic dimner; 1 p. m. children's races for those under sixteen; 2 p. m. adult races and field events; 3 p. m. mushball game, Tigers Club vs Marcellas; 4:15 p. m. aquatic events of all kinds; 5 p. m. tug of war; 5:30 p. m. time for supper.

Trainor Out Of Amateur Tourney

Dave Herron, Former National Amateur Champion Defeats Local Golfing Star

George Trainor, New Castle Field Club golf champion was eliminated in the Western Pennsylvania Amateur tourney, at the Pittsburgh Field Club course yesterday by Dave Herron, in a fast match 3 up and 2 to play.

Herron is the former National Amateur champion. R. W. Thompson of Ellwood City was also eliminated from the tourney by Semans. Regis Wolff and Watts Gunn also went out in the first round in upsets. Fred Wepper also was put out of the running.

Enters Hall of Fame

Local Man With Novel Car Will Race Saturday

Enters Double-Motored Racer, "Fleetwing" In New Kensington Events

Roy J. Caldwell of this city, whose novel racing car, the "Fleetwing," which has a double motor, and which has been attracting attention all over the country, has entered in the racing events to be held at New Kensington, Saturday.

The car has been in four races to date, winning second and third money in two of the events, and in the other two, was involved in collisions. The car was among the leaders in the two races in which it was wrecked.

A number of Mr. Caldwell's friends expect to accompany him to New Kensington on Saturday, when he meets some of the leading racers of the country in the competitive events on the card.

Petrolle Not To Battle McLarnin

Billy Petrolle Will Have None Of Jimmy McLarnin, According To Manager

McLARNIN PLAYS ROUGH IS CLAIM

By LES CONKLIN
International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Aug. 14.—Jack Hurley, manager of Billy Petrolle, declared today he would not allow the Fargo Express to meet Jimmy McLarnin in their third and "rubber" match at Yankee Stadium here next Thursday unless the New York Boxing Commission restrains McLarnin from using the cuffing and slapping tactics which gained him a victory over Petrolle in their last bout here.

Last Tuesday Hurley asked the commission that McLarnin's alleged illegal punches be barred in next week's bout. Commissioners Muldoon and Phelan bluntly told Hurley to mind his own business and virtually gave him "the bum's rush" out of the sanctum, and Jack has been "burning up" ever since.

"The rules specifically state that there shall be no clubbing, slapping, hitting with the open glove or side of the hand, and that blows must be struck with the knuckle portion of the closed glove," said Hurley today.

"If McLarnin beats Petrolle—and he will unless McLarnin is restrained from using illegal punches—Billy will lose the shot at Canzoneri's title."

Finals In June Handicap Are Now In Progress

First eighteen of the thirty-six hole finals of the June Handicap at the New Castle Field Club course have been played by William Duff, Jr., and W. M. Nunn, the finalists in this event, with the honors in favor of Duff, who is 6 up on Nunn in the first half of the finals.

The remaining eighteen holes will be played Sunday and the result will be determined at that time. At the present time, Duff has a decided edge on Nunn, who is one of the veterans of the club and a former club champion. Duff is one of the younger players and his showing indicates a great future in the sport of golf.

Field Club Golfers Now Qualifying For Club Championship

Golfers of the New Castle Field club are now qualifying for the annual competition for the championship of the club. The qualifying round is thirty-six holes, medal play, and some interesting scores are anticipated.

The qualifying round started on Wednesday, the twelfth, and all must have completed the same by Saturday, August 22, if they desire to compete in the championship.

It is planned to form a championship eight and two flights of sixteen of those not fortunate enough to be included in the championship group.

WOULD BAR PARADE TOGS.

(International News Service)

STOCKHOLM, Aug. 14.—The parade uniform should be abolished in the Swedish army! Thus pleads Major-General Bo Boustedt, chief of the Swedish General Staff. In a letter to the government he proposes to discard the plumed metal helmet, the gold-embossed epaulettes and the braided blue-and-gold sash for a plain blue uniform to be worn with white gloves and sword. The seriousness of military work writes the Major-General, does not justify the frivolity of the present parade uniform, and the cost of keeping a parade uniform is a heavy drain on the income of a young officer

He will. He won't!
He does! He don't.
This puzzling Dempsey man!
He should! He shan't!
He kin! He can't!
Put on the gloves again!

* * *

A suit of armor, please Must be left hook proof. And some assorted sub-machine guns. Thank you! Please express same to Jack Dempsey, Esq., Reno, Nevada. No, just send the bill to Mr. Dempsey, too. It's his party.

Mr. Dempsey, you see, friends say, is coming back to the wars.

Maybe the friends are all wet. Maybe Jack intends only to get in shape for an exhibition tour of four-round bouts, as was his earlier announcement. But you never can tell. Dempsey is in training. That's a fact. And now friends says he yearns to battle with Herr Maxie Schmeling for his old heavyweight crown.

Jack is a very restless fellow. He's either announcing his comeback or he isn't. All sports writers past their freshman year have learned the quickest way to look goofey is to write that Jack Dempsey is THROUGH.

You never know. You never will.

* * *

Jack must have been reading one of those new biographies of President Paul von Hindenburg of Germany.

Von Hindenburg came out of retirement when he was past SIXTY years of age, strapped on his Field Marshal's saber and slapped the Russian army to sleep to quickly the Czar didn't know what hit him.

Then Paul—just a doddering old has been, you know—did a right face jumped over into the western corner of the Big Bout and went into a three year clinch with the Allies, Old Paul would still be in there clutching and punching if his ammunition, food and the ambitions of his boy friends hadn't become exhausted.

Jack may be another Hindenburg but there's this difference. Old Paul did the thinking in his comeback battles. Somebody else fought 'em Jack not only would have to do the thinking, but the fighting, too.

* * *

Dempsey's reported comeback must not be taken seriously—at least not yet.

It's 12 years since Jack won the heavyweight title, and he was at the very peak of his fighting life at that time.

In the last five years Jack hasn't fought once. However, he's burned up a lot of energy jumping around the country filling referee assignments and trying to promote bouts.

No, we don't think Mr. Dempsey will fight Schmeling for the heavyweight title next year or any other year.

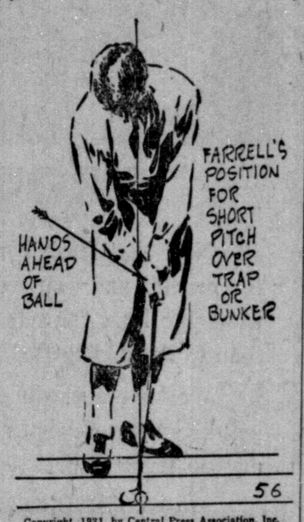
Johnny Farrell's Style On Pitch Shots Outlined

By ROY GROVE
Central Press Golf Writer



Copyright, 1931, by Central Press Association, Inc.

NUMBER 56

Aside from the actual drive, the short pitch to the green, over traps or bunkers, runs the score away up for the average player.

You will note in the illustration of Johnny Farrell, the position taken for this sort of shot.

Note how the face of the mashieniblic (or the niblic) is layed back to take care of the loft.

The most important feature of this position is that the club and stance is played about the same as a putting stance and the stroke is smooth and follows through.

Study the position of the feet. This allows the clubhead and arms to come on through the shot and on towards the direction of the hole.

Play this shot, and above all, do not look up to see the results, a fraction of an inch lift with the shoulder will get the player into worlds of trouble. If you are pitching over a trap you are likely to shoot into it. Hit the shot and then put the right foot on the spot where the ball lay before you hit it.

This method keeps the head down This is the hardest shot in the world to keep from watching as the ball is struck.

MALIZIA WIN OVER INDIES

A fast game was played on Thursday night on the Cedar street field when the Malizia nine scored a 9-7 victory over the Lawrence Indies.

Miss Clara Hartsuff Wins Ladies Event

Kickers Handicap Event Is Staged Thursday By Field Club Ladies

Ladies of the field club held a Kickers Handicap event Thursday as the weekly competition and there was a large number of the lady golfers of the club participating.

The winning number was to be between 80 and 90 and the number drawn for first place was 81 and for second place 83. Miss Clara M. Hartsuff won first place and Mrs. E. B. Bleakley and Mrs. F. W. McKee tied for second honors.

In the putting competition held at the same time during the playing of the 18 holes of the course, Mrs. T. W. Dickey was first with 32 putts, Miss Clara M. Hartsuff was second with 33 and Mrs. W. W. Horner third with 36.

The scores in the Kickers Handicap follows:

	G.	H.	N.
Miss Clara M. Hartsuff	95	14	81
Mrs. E. B. Bleakley	126	43	83
Mrs. F. W. McKee	110	27	83
Miss Rachel Wallace	109	25	84
Mrs. J. E. Elliott	108	28	80
Mrs. R. E. Long	121	33	88
Mrs. W. W. Horner	104	22	82
Mrs. T. W. Dickey	103	23	80

The fight business is near bottom when anybody can get a reputation by licking Sharkey.

Mushball Notes

The Lockley Machine took a forfeit game from the East Side Service team last night when the latter team failed to show up for a scheduled game. Fornataro was the umpire assigned.

The St. Andrews and Trinity game has been postponed due to the death of Mrs. Hitchen, mother of the second baseman of the St. Andrews team. The game was scheduled for tonight at Gaston Park. The game will be played some night next week.

Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock the Lockleys will play the Gables of Ellwood City. The game is called for the Lehigh Field. The Gables won the first two rounds of play in the Ellwood City league. A fast game is looked for.

The Marcella-News Slugs game scheduled for tonight has been postponed until a later date. The game will be played at a later date.

Creeping Bull Market Advances Early Sales

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Aug. 14.—The momentum generated by Thursday's closing spurt was sufficient to carry most of the Industrial favorites to higher levels in the early trading today. Though the Rails were still under pressure good recoveries were scored in some sections of that important group, with New Haven up more than 2 points at 58¼. Wall Street reported the resumption of pool activity in a number of the old leaders, including Radio, General Foods, Johns Manville, Standard Gas, Montgomery Ward, and the Amusement shares.

A drop of 17,000,000 in brokers loans, bringing the total to a new low record, was in line with calculations in the financial district. Cotton prices swung downward 10 to 12 points, but the Commodity markets as a whole were steady and the Rail bond list appeared to strike firmer ground.

The advance of the Industrial and Utility favorites today was in the form of a "creeping bull market" rather than by spectacular jumps in any important groups. Standard Gas, Consolidated Gas, Columbia Gas and other well known Utilities moved up about a point on the average. United States Steel at 90⅝ showed a gain of 1⅜ and a new high on the move, General Motors sold ex-dividend at 38⅛, up ¼ and General Foods was up a point at 52. Auburn Auto won a 5-point rally to 144½ and J. I. Case was up nearly 5 points at 63. Secony-Vacuum hung up a new high record at 19⅜, up about 2 points from its introductory price. The Coppers were in the laggard class, with the rails and inactive specialties.

The Gas-and-Electric, Power and Water stocks took the lead in the modest rally near the noon period and new gains of a point or more were recorded in American Waterworks, Electric Power and others.

Advertisement For Bids

Office of the Water and Power Resources Board, Harrisburg, Pennsylvania,
August 6, 1931.

Sealed proposals will be received at the office of the Water and Power Resources Board, Capitol Building, Harrisburg, Pennsylvania, until one o'clock P. M. Eastern Standard Time (two o'clock P. M. Eastern Daylight Savings Time), September 1, 1931, for the construction of the Pymatuning Dam and appurtenances across the Shenango river Valley about a mile and a half above Jamestown, in West Shenango and South Shenango Townships, Crawford County, Pennsylvania.

The dam will be an earth embankment about 2400 feet long and 50 feet in maximum height, and will include the following approximate quantities:

370,000 cubic yards embankment
180,000 cubic yards excavation
5,000 cubic yards concrete
900 tons steel sheet piling
9,000 cubic yards riprap
4,000 cubic yards stone paving

Proposals must be on the blank forms furnished by the Board and each proposal must be accompanied by a certified check for not less than 5 per cent of the aggregate amount of the bid, figured on the basis of the estimated quantities and the unit prices bid, such check to be drawn to the order of the Chairman of the Water and Power Resources Board as a guarantee that the bidder, if awarded the contract, will within ten days after the award, execute the contract, and furnish surety bond for the faithful performance of the contract, in the sum of 50% of the contract price, and an additional bond, in the sum of 50% of the contract price, for the prompt payment for all material furnished and labor supplied or performed in the prosecution of the work whether or not the material or labor enter into and become component parts of the structures; said contract and bonds to be on the standard forms prescribed by the Board. Such surety bonds shall be acceptable to the Chairman of the Board and each bond shall have as surety a surety company authorized to transact business in this Commonwealth, or two individual sureties approved by the Department of Justice.

If any bidder, to whom an award has been made, shall fail to execute the contract or to furnish satisfactory bond within the time hereinbefore specified, or as extended by the Board; the award shall thereupon become void, in which case the proceeds of the certified check shall become the property of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, and the contract may be awarded to the next lowest or best bidder; and such next lowest or best bidder shall thereupon assume the contract as if he were the party to whom the award was first made.

Each bidder must, in his proposal, present satisfactory evidence that he has been engaged in constructing works of the general character covered by his proposal, and that he is fully prepared, and has the necessary capital, to begin the work promptly, and to conduct it as required by the contract and specifications. Proposals not containing such evidence will not be recognized as bids.

The right is reserved to reject any or all bids, to waive technical defects and to accept or reject any part of any bid, if in the judgment of the Board, the best interests of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania shall require such action.

Drawings, specifications, proposal blanks, and other information may be obtained on application to the Chief Engineer, Water and Power Resources Board, Capitol Building, Harrisburg, Pennsylvania. A charge of $5.00 a set is made for contract drawings and specification. Drawings, specifications and samples of borings may be examined at the Field Office of the Board near the site of the Dam.

'Coin' Harvey Is Back

Retired from politics since the collapse of Bryan's free silver campaign back in 1900, Col. W. H. (Coin) Harvey, author of "Coin's Financial School," a best-seller during the '90's, has returned to the fold. Sponsor of a new political party, as yet unnamed, Colonel Harvey has just completed a tour of the west, arranging for the party's first national convention at Monte Ne, Ark., Aug. 25-29. He is shown at Rogers, Ark.

Heads Air Merger

P. G. Johnson (above), of Seattle, Wash., has been named president of the newly organized United Air Lines, formed by the merging of the National Air Transport, Boeing Air Transport, Pacific Air Transport and the Varney Air Lines. The combined companies operate about 120 planes, covering some 12,000,000 miles of air travel annually and carrying about 60 per cent of the nation's airmail.

Broke Hoover Date

Although he had an appointment with President Hoover, Thomas D. Campbell, called the largest individual wheat producer in the world, was compelled to forego the pleasure of meeting the Chief Executive in order to testify in the General Industrial Foundation, Inc., investigation at New York. Mrs. Ella De Bevois Patterson charges that two company officers defrauded her of $588,987.

THEY'LL DEMONSTRATE THEIR PROWESS AT AIR RACES

Women pilots entered in the National Air Races, at Cleveland, Aug. 29 to Sept. 7, are jubilant over the announcement of a 50-mile speed race for women, comparable with the 100-mile race for men. In other years they have complained that the races were not a true test of their ability as pilots. Among those expected to enter the speed event are (1) Gladys O'Donnell; (2) Ruth Nichols; (3) Mae Haizlip; (4) Louise M. Thaden; (5) Mrs. Phoebe Omlie; (6) Mrs. Opal Kunz; (7) Nancy Hopkins; (8) Elinor Smith; (9) Mrs. Charity F. Kiwanis Club Enjoys Social Event At The Fred L. Rentz Camp

The Kiwanis corn roast. Held Thursday evening at the Fred Rentz Y. M. C. A. camp was another successful social event. Members of the club with their families totaling one hundred or more persons partook of the activities afforded. Lt. Governor Anderson, Ellwood Helling, and daughter, Jean were special guests. The time before serving was spent in volley ball, horse shoes and social chat. At six-thirty the dinner call was sounded and what a spread. The committe had evidently seen a table set for a group of threshers and patterned after it. The tables fairly groaned. In fact one broke. So great was the load of good things.

After caring for the inner man, races for the children were run and prizes awarded the winners; a peanut scramble was also an event of interest to the children. As the shades of evening were being drawn the party moved its activity to the scene of the camp fire, President Clem Parker opened the program introducing Sam Lewis who lead in singing assisted by Ralph John, with a harmonica; after which the introduction of Lee Marvin as master of ceremonies took place, he in turn presented Hamilton A. Wilkinson, who is a neat speech presented to Mrs. William H. Gillespie, as winner of a guessing contest for the ladies, a clock; next on the program was Miss Katherine Wilcox, a miss of few years, who pleased the gathering with several readings; Ralph Johns again appeared on the scene with the harmonica, followed by Tommy Blake, who gave several impersonations.

Through the efforts of the entertainment portion of the committee the Super-Sud girls Clara, Lou and Em were secured for a broadcasting. The reception was fine but a trifle phony, the girls pulling a number of good ones on different members of the club. A peep behind the scenes revealed the announcer to be Dan Reeble, Clara was none other than Mrs. Hans N. Drio, Lou was there in the person of Mrs. Fred Wolford and Em was portrayed by Mrs. E. L. Thompson. This climaxed the party and close the program, except for a mashmallow roast that was enjoyed. The event was in the hands of Bob Mecrmans, chairman, assisted by Bill Ayres, Hans Drio, Bill Hanna, Fred Wolford, Charles McGrath and Lee Marvin.

Workers Organize For Charity Drive

Quota For County In "Little Sisters Of The Poor" Campaign Set At $7,000

At an enthusiastic meeting held last evening in the auditorium hall of St. Mary's church by priests and workers of the parishes of the Lawrence county district, plans were completed for the canvass to be made August 16-23 in the various parishes for funds for the Home for the Aged to be constructed in Pittsburgh for the Little Sisters of the Poor, in place of the one just recently burned.

The meeting was presided over by the Very Rev. Herman A. Seidel of Beaver Falls, dean of the Lawrence and Beaver county districts. Among the priests in attendance were Rev. Fr. P. J. McKenna and Rev. Fr. F. S. Clifford of St. Mary's parish, Rev. Fr. Joseph A. Doerr of St. Joseph's parish, Rev. Fr. A. P. Shultz, St. Margaret's parish; Rev. Fr. N. Piruili, St. Lawrence, Hillsville; Rev. Salvatore Ippolito, St. Lucy's parish, Rev. Fr. Francis Baczewski of Madonna church, Oakland; Rev. Fr. Capitan, St. Michael's parish, and Rev. Fr. Schramm of St. Agatha's church and parish, Ellwood City.

The workers numbered more than a hundred. The speakers of the evening were the Very Rev. H. A. Seidel, Rev. P. J. McKenna, Rev. Fr. F. S. Clifford, Rev. Fr. Joseph A. Doerr and Major Guy J. Wadlinger.

It was shown that this home is conducted by the Little Sisters of the Poor of whom there are about 25 and that the persons admitted to the home must be 65 years of age. The Little Sisters beg the money with which to maintain their institution.

Quota for the 15 parishes of Lawrence county was shown to be approximately $7,000. Some of the quotas announced were those of St. Mary's parish for $2,200, St. Joseph's $600, St. Lawrence, Hillsville, $200.

The workers were instructed to solicit non-Catholics as well as Catholics and each parish will solicit its own members. They were provided with receipt books, stickers to be used where a subscription is secured and other necessary material for conducting the campaign, including lists to be solicited in the respective parishes.

The public is advised to be sure that the person soliciting them have the proper credentials, receipt books and stickers to placed in the window by those giving to the cause before making a donation.

The best way to get rid of the farm surplus is to make fat women fashionable again. The reason father doesn't eat so much wheat and corn products as usual is that mother doesn't prepare 'em any more on acount of the calories.
